AGREE ON COUNTY AGENTS. The county commissioners will not seek any changes in laws relative to the elimination of the county agricultural agents, nor will they seek amendments in the present law covering that office. This decision came after a protracted debate in the state association of commissioners here, a motion made to seek amendment to the law asking that the hiring, firing and salary fixing of the county agents be left entirely to the discretion of the county board was eventually killed on the theory that the present law which allows taxpayers to vote on the proposition is the most fair and equitable method of handling the matter.

Election of officers scheduled for tomorrow morning will be a mere formality. Nominations are Ed Lichty, president; vice president, J. F. Strauss; Wells county; secretary, Frank Holmes; Valley City; directors, August Kranz, Ward; Oscar Strehlow, Hettinger; H. R. Lampen, Williams; Neal Nicholson, Cavalier; H. Paulson, LaMoure. Fargo probably will get the next convention, over Devils Lake.

Repeal of the mothers' pension bill, repeal of the seed and feed law, bonding statute, support of pending legislation for the repeal of the law requiring the register of deeds to furnish abstracts of crop mortgages and liens to elevators for a $5.00 fee and a move to foster and encourage legislation which will do away with all tax exemptions are chief points in the matter of legislation which have been approved by the Association of County Commissioners of the State of North Dakota in convention here.

Exemption of some classes of property which result in the payment of a greater percentage by the land itself, was assailed by the commissioners. The resolutions committee was directed to draw up a measure putting the commissioners on record as being opposed to the exemption of any kind of property from taxation—poultry, livestock, farm buildings—except public buildings. In this connection action was taken supporting the theory of general assessment of all property at 50 percent of the actual value.

The resolutions committee which made its report this morning and which is composed of L. L. Russell of New Rockford, R. G. Brownlee, Cass, and Ben Everson, McLean county, also favored the adoption of legislation which would require attorneys to be ready to try cases when the actions are brought by the district judge except in cases where sufficient reason be granted for continuance.

Would Repeal Hail Tax. Another proposal to the legislature calls for the repeal of the flat three cent tax for hail insurance purposes and a further resolution calls for a change in the law to the end that the crop owner shall apply to the property officials for hail insurance instead of having his crop included as insured and making it necessary for him to appear prior to a certain date and withdraw such land in order to avoid paying the tax.

The commissioners were expected further to go on record "as favoring the passage of those laws that will insure to the state the highest federal aid money so provided by the federal statutes and that the legislature be urged to provide for the necessary funds and officers to secure the same."

The resolutions committee also put in a report calling upon the legislature to reduce the cost of official publications to a figure commensurate with the service furnished and yet equitable to the newspaper publisher.

Are Entertained. Last night the commissioners were entertained at a banquet tendered them by the Mandan Commercial Club and today following a brief morning session, the convention body of 170 strong was taken by motor to the State Training School, the Northern Great Plains Field station, penitentiary, capitol and other institutions and points of interest about the two cities.

Election of officers, selection of the next place of business and final "round-up" and wind-up of business is scheduled to take place on Friday morning.

The resolutions committee also paid glowing tribute in their report to the local entertainment arranged by the Mandan Commercial Club.

INCREASE PRODUCTION. The Lucky Strike lignite mine at Zap has increased its production 200 tons a day since October, according to Anderson, chief engineer of the mine who was in Bismarck recently. The mine was producing 450 tons daily in October and is now producing 650 tons, he says. The coal is being sold largely through Minnesota, according to Mr. Anderson.

THRIFTIEST WOMAN WHO MADE $200,000 OUT OF $100, TELLS HOW SHE DID IT

ELLEN O'BYRNE DEWITT, NEW YORK'S THRIFTIEST WOMAN.

BY JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT. NEA Service Staff Writer. New York, Jan. 18.—Ellen O'Byrne loved an Irish tune. That love and a little bundle of clothes was all that she had when, an immigrant girl of 16, she landed in this country.

Today Ellen O'Byrne DeWitt owns property valued at $200,000. She has started four of her brothers and sisters brought over from the old country, on the way to material success, and has put her two sons through school and established them in business.

New York's thriftiest woman they call her down on Third avenue where the handsome gray-haired woman presides over the destinies of what is now a thriving music store.

Twelve years ago Mrs. DeWitt, after having weathered somewhat more than the usual number of life's storms, found herself stranded with $100 in her pocket and a young and hungry son clinging to each hand.

Then she remembered the tunes she had loved back home. She took her hundred dollars and started an Irish music store.

All day long she kept the store. At night she would get her boys' supper help them with their lessons and put them to bed. Then she would mend their clothes, straighten her house and do the family washing. In the morning she would hang out the washing, cook the breakfast and get the boys off to school. At 9 o'clock she would be down to her storekeeping.

The store continued to prosper. When the lease expired Mrs. DeWitt bought the building. It seemed to be a good investment so she bought the property next to it, too.

During the war she let it be known that customers might, if they wished, pay for talking machines with Liberty bonds. Some time later Mrs. DeWitt purchased a home on Staten Island putting up $4,000 in Liberty bonds as collateral. Now she owns two other houses on Staten Island and five lots.

Twelve years ago—$100 and an idea.

Today—$200,000 and comfort.

"Anybody could do it," says Mrs. DeWitt. "My motto? Being saving and doing something useful every minute."

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 18.—I knew the post-war days would be rough and I put by every cent I could rake and scrape in the army. After my discharge I worked hard, and a little of what I earned I saved. It was mighty little, but I did it every week, and soon I began to see how even a little money, thriftily saved, could be turned over in business.

Thrift taught me business judgment, and business judgment enabled me to make progress.

Thrift is the greatest asset a person can have. With it, success is usually impossible.

CASE OF FRECKLED, SIX-YEAR-OLD GIRL TO GO BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Protection for children who are sent out to homes by child placing agencies is contemplated in a bill to be introduced in the North Dakota legislature during the next week or so by the Children's Code commission.

The commission recommends that children should only be placed in homes subject to the approval of the state board of administration, and that papers transferring the child from a child placing agency to a home should not be made out without some court action in the matter.

The commission cites the case of "Mary" who was brought to North Dakota along with some 20 other children by an eastern child placing agency. Twelve little boys and eight little girls were dressed in their best clothes and marched to the town hall of a certain North Dakota town to find foster parents.

Most of the youngsters were promptly disposed of, but no one

CONFIRM APPOINTMENTS. The state senate this afternoon confirmed the reappointment of C. C. Converse as the state tax commissioner, the appointment having been submitted by Governor Neskos and considered in executive session.

The house banking commission this afternoon reported favorably on the adoption of the resolution asking for a report from the Guaranty Fund Commission on the administration of closed banks and the resolution was passed.

The bill providing for a $500 appropriation to aid Company A, Bismarck in the Army Case was referred to the appropriation committee which committee had yesterday reported for indefinite postponement of the bill.

Three bills were recommended for indefinite postponement by committee of the North Dakota senate yesterday afternoon, and final action on the recommendations will be taken by the senate today.

One of the measures thus recommended for extinction was S. B. 25, introduced by Senator W. S. Whitman of Grand Forks which provided for reciprocity with other states in permitting articles by insurance agents. Another insurance bill recommended for killing was S. B. 10, which would have raised the legal limit of reserve funds of farmers mutual insurance companies.

The appropriations committee recommended indefinite postponement of S. B. 28 introduced by Senator Sperry of Burleigh by request. The bill provided for the appropriation of $500 to protect the interests of the state in the controversy over the ownership of the Bismarck Armory.

There were two communications received, one of them from a large group of McKinnick people urging favorable action on H. B. 25, introduced by Rep. Halstrom of Pembina which would prohibit dancing in public school buildings.

Six Bills Presented. Six bills were introduced. The most important of these was put in by Senator Walter Bond of Minot and is designed to prevent the forced sale of homesteads up to the value of $5,000. Another important measure S. B. 41, introduced by Senator Ingvaldsen would repeal that part of the present law for the licensing of architects which requires plans and specifications of school buildings to be drawn by an architect.

S. B. Senate Bill 37 introduced by Senator Kelsch would repeal the present law requiring publication of the proceedings of the State Education Commission.

HERRIN RIOT CASES PLACED IN JURY HANDS

Judge Caustic When Giving Charge—Case Ended This Morning

Herrin, Ill., Jan. 18. The fate of the five men charged with killing Howard Hoffman, one of the men killed in the Herrin riots, was given to the jury at 11:15 a. m. after long instructions had been read.

In his instructions to the jury Judge Hartwell said:

"It is not against the law to mine coal without being a member of the United Mine Workers of America. If assaulted or killed for no other reason it cannot be justified because they were not members of that organization. If one of the accused men committed the crime charged in this indictment and if other defendants stood by, aided or encouraged the crime it is your duty to find all of the defendants guilty."

After the jury retired Judge Harwell said:

"It is murder for nothing."

ORR FUNERAL PROBABLY TO BE ON FRIDAY

Funeral services for Robert Orr, who passed away suddenly Tuesday night, will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon or at 10:30 Saturday morning at the First Presbyterian church. The time was set conditionally after the arrival of Merton Orr, son of the deceased, and his wife last night, but the actual time of the services is dependent upon the time of the arrival of Miss Agnes Orr, who is en route here from the east.

Services will be in charge of Rev. Postlethwaite.

'MERE' MAN IS ERASED FROM ELECTION LAW

House Passes Senate Bills Putting Laws in Line With Woman Suffrage

NO SEPARATE BOXES

House Continues Killing Bills, Setting What Is Believed To Be Record

The house of representatives yesterday afternoon completed legislative action necessary to put North Dakota election laws in line with the woman suffrage amendment of the constitution when it passed without dissenting vote three senate bills fathered by Sen. J. E. Stevens, Ramsey county.

One of these measures abolishes requirement of depositing ballots of men and women separate boxes, another removes the requirement that county commissioners furnish separate boxes and a third brings the qualifications of elections in line with the suffrage amendment by striking from the law the word "male."

The house passed one of its own bills, No. 21, which removes a provision in the law declared to be in protection to Ft. Yates, county seat of Sioux county, from the attacks of other towns in the county seeking to remove the county seat. There were six scattering votes against the measure. As the bill passed the protection given Ft. Yates by its being on a navigable river—the Missouri—is removed, and the question of removing the county seat may be voted on at any primary and general election.

As an economy measure the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, recommended for passage H. B. 46, which reduces the mileage allowance of county superintendents from 15 to 10 cents within counties and from 10 to 5 cents when traveling on official business outside the county of official residence. Rep. Twitchell said one member had found that $40,000 was paid in the last two years in mileage to county superintendents, and that the bill was aimed simply to remove a large sum of money granted in the form of mileage.

Communications Received. Among the communications received by the house from various counties was one asking for greater appropriation for the state board of health, another supporting the anti-dance bill and another favoring the prohibition of the crop mortgage.

Another "Robinson bill" H. B. 15, was indefinitely postponed. The bill provided that a party appealing from a judgment may unite in the same appealable order more than one appealable matter.

Bills introduced number four and included a bill by Rep. Capt. Ingvaldsen of Burleigh to aid in construction of a bridge across Des Moines river at the Burleigh county line; a bill by Rep. L. E. Heaton providing barbershops may not be located in a store or restaurant except on permission of the state board of examiners of barbers and requiring partitions if barbershops are located in pool halls; and two by Rep. Martinson of which one permits persons whose names have been sold for taxes and bid in by the county, to redeem them at 6 percent interest if redeemed before Dec. 1, 1923, and another reducing the maximum rate of interest on tax sale certificates from 12 to 10 percent.

Making Record. A record in killing bills introduced by its own members is believed to have been established by the house of representatives.

One of the first permits introduced, 14 have been killed in the house. Only five bills had been reported out of committee for passage or passed before yesterday's session.

The attitude of many members is that there is less need for new legislation than there is to correct laws now on the book, and this attitude thus far has resulted in an unusually small number of bills being introduced. When the house met today only 54 bills had been introduced.

NESTOS SIGNS FIRST BILL

The first bill to pass both houses of the legislature is now a law. It was signed by Governor Nestos last night.

The bill—senate bill No. 17, by Ruch, Cass county—provided an appropriation of $8,250 to purchase a mechanical stoker for the Agricultural College.

Los Angeles, Jan. 18.—Of the $500,000 which Jackie Coogan, child film actor, is said recently to have received as a bonus for signing a contract with the Metro Pictures Corporation $260,720 will go to the government in the form of income tax, according to figures made public by Rex. B. Goodsell, collector of internal revenue.

The collector explained that his estimate did not include the tax on Jackie's reported salary of $1,250 a week, that of his father at $1,000 a week of his 50 percent share of the net profits of films in which he is to be starred.

The first still seized under the administration of Sheriff John Heston was taken by Deputy Sheriff Robert Phelps and federal officers at the place of Joe Volk, Jr., 404 S. 10th street. The officers said they confiscated a still, coil and 60 gallons of mash. A charge of manufacturing liquor was brought before Justice Casselman.

NORTH DAKOTA HAS CHANCE TO GET BIG HOME

Alexander Anderson Tells Audience of Yeomen Plan To Build Home

PRaises COMMISSION

"North Dakota stands as good a chance to get the $10,000,000 children's home which the American Yeomen plan to establish as any other state in the Union," declared Alexander Anderson, assistant supervisor of the children's home department of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen in a talk last night before a group of citizens at the Rialto theatre. Alex. G. Frank Hyland, introduced the speaker.

The first essential to be considered in the location of the home is "Environment conducive to the most wholesome and rational development of childhood," said Mr. Anderson.

The Yeomen brotherhood has undertaken the building of a "children's school home" in order to care for the orphan children of deceased members of the brotherhood, and to provide as far as possible all the advantages and opportunities which children in normal homes possess.

To accomplish this they plan: 1. The location of the home on a beautiful and healthful site, avoiding extremes of climate. 2. The building of an ideal village community life in which the children's home shall play its part. 3. Providing by careful selection foster parents who will supply as far as possible the parental love and home life.

Mr. Anderson said that the greatest question before the American people today in this period of unrest was the "conservation of our child life." For the boys and girls of today will make up the citizens of the nations tomorrow.

He said that this proposed children's school home was not to be an orphanage—although orphan children would make it up. Each cottage, which was to cost about $25,000 each was to be very much like an ordinary home with twelve or fifteen children ranging in ages and a father and mother who would have charge of a cottage and family entirely independent of the others.

The boys and girls should be provided with educational opportunities from the grades through high school, with vocational training, and given an chance to continue through college if they aspired to a profession.

The work of the Children's Code commission in North Dakota was highly commended by the speaker. He said that the attitude of the public would have much to do with the location of the home. The decision as to the location will be made sometime between March and May, he said.

Members of the state legislature, after hearing Mr. Anderson's talk yesterday afternoon, appointed a committee to consult with him regarding the possible location of the home in the state.

Mr. Anderson spoke before the members of the legislature and Rotary club yesterday.

SUIT STARTED. Fargo, N. D., Jan. 18.—Suit for $22,250 against O. L. Engen, as receiver for the Prosper State bank of Prosper, N. D., was started today in Cass county district court by the State of North Dakota, doing business through the Bank of North Dakota. Alleged transactions between the Scandinavian American bank and the Bank of North Dakota under the former state administration, were brought into the case by the defense.

The Bank of North Dakota alleges that $22,250 was redeposited with the Prosper State bank. The defense denies that the bank ever actually deposited this sum with the Prosper State bank.

Coal Officials to be Court Martialled for Their Resistance

Berlin, Jan. 18.—A general stiffening of German resistance in the face of French ultimatums is indicated by the Berlin newspaper correspondents in the Ruhr.

The mine operators, workers and labor leaders are represented as standing together. France and Belgium appear to be the only nations to which Germany refuses to make reparations deliveries, for it is declared here that shipments to Great Britain, Italy, Poland and Jugoslavia will not be interrupted.

TAKE POSSESSION OF MINES. London, Jan. 18.—The French this morning took possession of all the mines in the Ruhr area, says a Reuters Essen dispatch. It is reported but unconfirmed that the French also seized the officers of the various coal companies.

SOVIETS AT WAR. Stockholm, Jan. 18.—Reports of pronounced military activity in the Dvina river of Russia (east of the former Baltic provinces) are printed by the newspaper Tidningen today. It asserts that the military district of Smolensk has been declared in state of war that all the Soviet troops garrisoned at Bittkoff and Smolensk have been sent southwestward (toward the Polish frontier) and that passenger traffic on the railway between Polotsk and Mohilev (south of Vitebsk) is suspended and all trains requisition for the military.

Fortifications are being built in the Dvina district, the newspaper also says it has learned. There was no confirmation of this report from other sources.

TO COURT MARTIAL MAGNATES

Essen, Germany, Jan. 18.—If French military authorities today instituted court martial proceedings against Ruhr coal magnates whose names were withheld. They were charged with "refusing to obey" orders of the military authorities to the territory under state of siege.

The magnates have not been taken into custody.

EXCHANGE DEMORALIZED

London, Jan. 18.—The foreign exchange market was utterly demoralized today with international operations in continental currencies practically at a standstill, any business transacted being purely in the nature of gambles.

German marks at noon were quoted at 105,000 to 110,000 to the pound sterling. The French franc stood at 77 75-100 and the Belgian franc a 77 35-100 to the pound.

The currents of public opinion are running now against the Republic which has been the cause of the Whigs, the speaker continued, and unless present portents are mislead the fate that befell the Whig Party may overtake its successor.

Turning to the Turkish situation, Mr. Cox said:

"Propaganda reaching to communities has carried the expression often heard from Paris, that the allies are not far from being out of the European meat." For this time this may carry the intended appeal but the facts underlying the Turkish embroglio will in brief season be known. If we had not abandoned a responsibility assumed during the war, the situation in the Near East would not now be so serious. Mr. Hughes' contention that we were not at war with Turkey is an evasion. We were in fact but not in law at war with Turkey. We were an ally of the nations fighting Turkey. We turned munitions over to our allies without question as to where they were to be used. When soldiers from our allied armies went to the scene of Turkish hostilities, our own soldiers took the places they gave up on the western front. There was no interference with war shipments. Not all of the war necessities were imported by Kemalists but most of them were. If this is not another tragedy to be charged against the policy of indifference and aloofness, then I mistake the plain significance of events. The Kemalists offensive resulted not only in an insolent attitude to the world generally, but in the slaughter of thousands of men, women and children as well.

"There is another phase of the near eastern situation which will doubtless enter into the public's final analysis. It presents the question of the administration's attitude of aloofness when women were outraged and thousands of adults and children killed, squares with the time-honored American policy of protecting religious minorities.

"When the slaughter of Christians was at its height, a committee of church ministers called upon the president of the United States and urged some official expression of our people's outraged feelings. The executive is quoted as saying that he did not favor any protest unless we were in a position to back it up. Within a fortnight our government filed a protest but not in behalf of human life. Instead, it was entered to protect oil interests in a part of contested territory."

MODIFY PROGRAM

(By the Associated Press) Essen, Germany, Jan. 18.—Ruhr valley coal operators who thought for a time last night that the French were to take over the mines tomorrow found themselves still in possession of their property to-day and learned that only coal mined above the ground came under the revised requisitioning order of French authorities.

The magnates also learned that they face court martial instead of actual arrest as a result of their refusal to deliver coal to France.

The economic commission in regard to its final decision on the point to be followed, concluded that cause of the shortage of technical experts, it would be better to requisition only coal ready for delivery and route to France all shipments intended for German domestic consumption.

It was also said that certain nations, notably the United States and Great Britain, learned with dismay if the terms "confiscations," as had been applied to the French policy by the Paris press.

What attitude labor would take in the event the mines were seized also received the commission's serious consideration for it is real the French would be under a handicap should the German miners refuse to do their work.

CASE OF FRECKLED, SIX-YEAR-OLD GIRL TO GO BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Protection for children who are sent out to homes by child placing agencies is contemplated in a bill to be introduced in the North Dakota legislature during the next week or so by the Children's Code commission.

The commission recommends that children should only be placed in homes subject to the approval of the state board of administration, and that papers transferring the child from a child placing agency to a home should not be made out without some court action in the matter.

The commission cites the case of "Mary" who was brought to North Dakota along with some 20 other children by an eastern child placing agency. Twelve little boys and eight little girls were dressed in the best clothes and marched to the town hall of a certain North Dakota town to find foster parents.

Most of the youngsters were promptly disposed of, but no one wanted Mary. She was only six years old, wore glasses for crossed eyes, had red hair and spotty freckles. The man who had charge of the children wanted to get rid of Mary and return east. The next day he heard of a family who might take a child, and Mary apparently had found a home.

But such a home. The six-year-old tot was made a household drudge, and received only harsh words and punishment in return. Neighbors finally complained to the authorities, the court intervened, and finally removed her to a children's home in a nearby city to await proper placing.

It is to prevent such cases as this that the children's code commission is making its recommendation. Had the law now recommended been in existence two years ago Mary would never have been placed in such a home, and would have escaped two years of misery.

The appropriations committee recommended indefinite postponement of S. B. 28 introduced by Senator Sperry of Bismarck. The bill provided for the appropriation of $500 to protect the interests of the state in the controversy over the ownership of the Bismarck Armory.

There were two communications received, one of them from a large group of Bismarck people urging favorable action on H. B. 25, introduced by Rep. Halcrow of Pembina which would prohibit dancing in public school buildings.

Six bills were introduced. The most important of these was put in by Senator Walter Bond of Minot and is designed to prevent the forced sale of homesteads up to the value of $5,000. Another important measure S. B. 41, introduced by Senator Ingerson would repeal that part of the present law for the licensing of architects which requires plans and specifications of school buildings to be drawn by an architect.

S. B. Senate Bill 37 introduced by Senator Kelsch would repeal the present law requiring publication of the proceedings of the State Education board.

HERRIN RIOT CASES PLACED IN JURY HANDS

Judge Caustic When Giving
Charge—Case Ended
This Morning

Herrin, Ill., Jan. 18. The fate of the five men charged with killing Howard Hoffman, one of the men killed in the Herrin riots, was given to the jury at 11:15 a. m. after long instructions had been read.

In his instructions to the jury Judge Harwell said:

"It is not against the law to mine coal without being a member of the United Mine Workers of America. If assaulted or killed for no other reason it cannot be justified because they were not members of that organization. If one of the accused men committed the crime charged in this indictment and if other defendants stood by, aided or encouraged the crime it is your duty to find all of the defendants guilty."

After the jury retired Judge Harwell said:

"It is murder for nothing."

ORR FUNERAL PROBABLY TO BE ON FRIDAY

Funeral services for Robert Orr, who passed away suddenly Tuesday night, will be held either at 2:30 Friday afternoon or at 10:30 Saturday morning at the First Presbyterian church. The time was set conditionally after the arrival of Merton Orr, son of the deceased, and his wife last night, but the actual time of the services is dependent upon the time of the arrival of Miss Agnes Orr, who is en route here from the east.

Services will be in charge of Rev. Postlewaite.

'MERE' MAN IS ERASED FROM ELECTION LAW

House Passes Senate Bills
Putting Laws in Line With Woman Suffrage

NO SEPARATE BOXES

House Continues Killing Bills,
Setting What Is Believed To Be Record

The house of representatives yesterday afternoon completed legislation which was necessary to put North Dakota election laws in line with the woman suffrage amendment of the constitution when it passed without dissenting vote three senate bills fathered by Sen. J. E. Stevens, Ramsey county.

One of these measures abolishes requirement of depositing ballots of men and women separate boxes, another removes the requirement that county commissioners furnish separate boxes and a third brings the qualifications of elections in line with the suffrage amendment by striking from the law the word "male."

The house passed one of its own bills, No. 27, which removes a provision in the law declared to be a protection to Ft. Yates, county seat of Sioux county, from the attacks of other towns in the county seeking to remove the county seat. There were six scattering votes against the measure. As the bill passed the protection given Ft. Yates by its being on a navigable river—the Missouri—is removed, and the question of removing the county seat may be voted on at any primary and general election.

As an economy measure the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, recommended for passage H. B. 46, which reduces the mileage allowance of county superintendents from 15 to 10 cents within counties and from 10 to 5 cents when traveling on official residence. Rep. Twitchell said one member had found that $40,000 was paid in the last two years in mileage to county superintendents, and the bill was aimed simply to remove a salary increase granted in the form of mileage.

Communications Received

Among the communications received by the house from various counties was one asking for greater appropriation for the state board of health, another supporting the anti-dance bill and one asking for the prohibition of the crop mortgage.

Another "Robinson bill" H. B. 15, was indefinitely postponed. The bill provided that a party appealing from a judgment may unite in the same appealable order more than one appealable matter.

Bills introduced number four and included a bill by Rep. Catt appropriating $35,000 to aid in construction of a bridge across Des Laes lake on the Burke-Ward county line; a bill by Rep. L. E. Heaton providing for the licensing of barbershops may not be located in a store or restaurant except on permission of the state board of examiners of barbers and requiring partitions if barbershops are located in pool halls; and two by Rep. Martin, one of which would permit persons whose lands have been sold for taxes and bid in by the county, to redeem them at 6 percent interest if redeemed before Dec. 1, 1923, and another reducing the maximum rate of interest on tax sale certificates from 12 to 10 percent.

Making Record

A record in killing bills introduced by its own members is believed to have been established by the house of representatives today.

Out of the first 50 bills introduced, 14 have been killed in the house. Only five bills have been reported out of committee for passage or passed before yesterday's session.

The attitude of many members is that there is no need for new legislation that there is to correct laws now on the book, and this attitude thus far has resulted in an unusually small number of bills being introduced. When the house met today only 54 bills had been introduced.

NESTOS SIGNS FIRST BILL

The first bill to pass both houses of the legislature is now a law. It was signed by Governor Nestos last night.

The bill—senate bill No. 17, by Rusch, Cass county—provided an appropriation of $2,250 to purchase a mechanical stoker for the Agricultural College.

JACKIE COOGAN, MOVIE STAR TO PAY GOVERNMENT $260,720 OF $500,000 BONUS FOR SIGNING CONTRACT

Los Angeles, Jan. 18.—Of the $500,000 which Jackie Coogan, child film actor, is said recently to have received as a bonus for signing a contract with the Metro Pictures Corporation $260,720 will go to the government in the form of income tax, according to figures made public by Rex B. Goodsell, collector of internal revenue.

The collector explained that his estimate did not include the tax on Jackie's reported salary of $1,250 a week, that of his father at $1,000 a week, and his 50 percent share of the net profits of films in which he is to be starred.

STILL SEIZED IN BISMARCK

The first still seized under the administration of Sheriff Albin Hedstrom was taken by Deputy Sheriff Robert Phelps and federal officers at the place of Joe Volk, Jr., 404 S. 10th street. The officers said they confiscated a still, coil and 60 gallons of mash. A charge of manufacturing liquor was brought before Justice Caselman.

NORTH DAKOTA HAS CHANCE TO GET BIG HOME

Alexander Anderson Tells Audience of Yeomen Plan To Build Home

PRaises COMMISSION

"North Dakota stands as good a chance to get the $100,000 children's home which the American Yeomen plan to establish as any other state in the Union," declared Alexander Anderson, assistant supervisor of the children's home department of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen in a talk last night before a group of citizens at the Rialto theatre.

Lieut. Gov. Frank Hyland, introduced the speaker.

The first essential to be considered in the location of the home is "Environment conducive to the most wholesome and rational development of childhood," said Mr. Anderson.

The Yeomen brotherhood has undertaken the building of a "children's school home" in order to care for the orphan children of deceased members of the brotherhood, and to provide as far as possible all the advantages and opportunities which children in normal homes possess.

To accomplish this they plan: 1. The location of the home on a beautiful and healthful site, avoiding extremes of climate. 2. The building of an ideal village community life in which the children's home shall play its part. 3. Providing by careful selection of foster parents who will supply as far as possible the parental love and home life.

Mr. Anderson said that the greatest question before the American people today in this period of unrest was the "conservation of our child life," for the boys and girls of today will make up the citizens of the nations tomorrow.

He said that this proposed "children's school home" was not to be an orphanage although orphan children would make it up. Each cottage, which was to cost about $25,000 each was to be very much like an ordinary home with twelve or fifteen children ranging in ages and a father and mother who would have charge of the cottage and family entirely independent of the others.

The boys and girls should be provided with educational opportunities from the grades through high school, with vocational training, and given an chance to continue through college if they aspired to a profession.

The work of the Children's Code commission in North Dakota was highly commended by the speaker. He said that the attitude of the public would have much to do with the location of the home. The decision as to the location will be made sometime between March and May, he said.

The members of the state legislature, after hearing Mr. Anderson talk yesterday afternoon, appointed a committee to consult with him regarding the possible location of the home in the state.

Mr. Anderson spoke before the members of the legislature and Rotary club yesterday.

SUIT STARTED

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 18.—Suit for $22,250 against O. L. Engen, as receiver for the Prosper State bank of Prosper, N. D., was started today in Cass county district court by the State of North Dakota, doing business through the Bank of North Dakota. Alleged transactions between the Scandinavian American bank and the Bank of North Dakota under the former state administration, were brought into the case by the defense.

The Bank of North Dakota alleges that $22,250 was redeposited with the Prosper State bank. The defense denies that the bank ever actually deposited this sum with the Prosper State bank.

Ruhr Coal Magnates Making Shipments to All Allies But France

FRENCH SEIZE MINES

Coal Officials to be Court Martialled for Their Resistance

Berlin, Jan. 18.—A general stiffening of German resistance in the face of French ultimatums is indicated by the Berlin newspaper correspondents in the Ruhr.

The mine operators, workers and labor leaders are represented as standing together. France and Belgium appear to be the only nations to which Germany refuses to make reparations deliveries, for it is declared here that shipments to Great Britain, Italy, Poland and Jugo-Slavia will not be interrupted.

TAKE POSSESSION OF MINES

London, Jan. 18.—The French this morning took possession of all the mines in the Ruhr area, says a Reuters Essen dispatch. It is reported, but unconfirmed that the French also seized the offices of the various coal companies.

SOVIETS AT WAR

Stockholm, Jan. 18.—Reports of pronounced military activity in the Dvina river of Russia (east of the former Baltic provinces) are printed by the newspaper "Tibingen" today. It asserts that the military district of Smolensk has been declared in a state of war, that all the Soviet troops stationed at Bitesk and Smolensk have been sent southwest (toward the Polish frontier) and that passenger traffic on the railway between Polotsk and Mohilev (south of Vitebsk) is suspended and trains requisition for the military.

Fortifications are being built in the Dvina district, the newspaper also says it has learned. There was no confirmation of this report from other sources.

TO COURT MARTIAL MAGNATES

Essen, Germany, Jan. 18.—The French military authorities today instituted court martial proceedings against Ruhr coal magnates whose names were withheld. They were charged with "refusing to obey the orders of the military authorities in the territory under state of siege."

The magnates have not been taken into custody.

EXCHANGE DEMORALIZED

London, Jan. 18.—The foreign exchange market was utterly demoralized today with international operations in continental currencies practically at a standstill, any business transacted being purely in the nature of gambles.

German marks at noon were quoted at 105,000 to 110,000 to the pound sterling. The French franc stood at 70 75-100 and the Belgian franc at 77 35-100 to the pound.

FRAUGHT WITH DANGER.

(By the Associated Press.)

Washington, Jan. 18.—Italy has taken definite steps to impress upon the British and French governments that she regards the present situation in the Ruhr as fraught with great danger and although not taking the position of an actual mediator has earnestly suggested that further forcible steps toward the collection of German reparations be taken only after the most mature consideration.

MODIFY PROGRAM.

(By the Associated Press.)

Essen, Germany, Jan. 18.—Ruhr valley coal operators who thought for a time last night that the French were to take over the mines this morning found themselves still in possession of their property today and learned that only coal mines above the Ruhr came under the revised requisitioning order of the French.

The magnates also learned that they face court martial instead of actual arrest as a result of their refusal to deliver coal to France.

The economic commission in reaching its final decision on the policy to be followed, concluded that because of the shortage of technical experts, it would be better to requisition only coal ready for delivery and route to France all shipments intended for German domestic consumption.

It was also said that certain nations, notably the United States and Great Britain, learned with disfavor of the terms "confiscations," as it had been applied to the French Ruhr policy by the Paris press.

What attitude labor would take in the event the mines were seized also received the commission's serious consideration for it is realized the French would be under a heavy handicap should the German miners refuse to do their work.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Napoleon, N. D., Jan. 18.—Funeral services for George A. Bryant will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock instead of Friday as previously announced.

NEW SOURCES OF TAXATION ARE PROPOSED

Budget Board Says This Is Problem of Legislature Rather Than Economy

CUT NEW BUILDINGS

Few Salary Increases Also Included, Board Says in Report to Solons

After going over the state's budget for the next two years the budget board made suggestions and comments including the following:

Practically no money for salary increases or new buildings was recommended.

The department and institution requests were "reasonable" but the board felt it must consider economic conditions and the cry for lower taxes.

The state training school at Mandan has had 200 percent increase in the last two years—the penitentiary over 80 percent.

Increases in the higher educational institutions were phenomenal in the last year. The Agricultural college leading with 52 percent.

New sources of revenue must be found to take the burden off real property. While economic conditions are admittedly bad the board does not believe that North Dakota is so poverty stricken that she must deny any child the right to a good education.

Internal revenue office records at Fargo show that in 1922 more than $5,000,000 were spent in the state for tobacco and cigars; more than $2,000,000 for candy; more than $2,000,000 for shoes; nearly $1,000,000 for soft drinks and more than $500,000 for cosmetics.

The question as to how much the direct appropriations for the two year period 1923-25 shall be is now in the hands of the North Dakota legislature. The appropriations are for state departments, institutions and miscellaneous items.

The budget board cut nearly four million dollars from the requests of the departments and institutions; brought the budget down to $12,000 less than it was for the present two year period ending June 30 and told the legislators in a letter of transmittal which will accompany the budget:

"Great care should be exercised in making any further reductions, as the amounts recommended constitute, in our opinion, the minimum necessary for proper maintenance of each department or institution."

The letter of transmittal does not warn against the cuts the legislators should care to make any, over the board's recommendation.

Both budget and letter of transmittal will go to the legislature soon.

The various departments and institutions requested $11,827,018. The board recommended $1,502,101. The present appropriations total $7,574,285.

There is a feeling about the capital that the board members cut the budget to the bone because they felt in duty bound to do so in line with the administration program of economy, but that they feel that if the legislators wish to increase any appropriations such action will be proper.

Building Requests Cut

Neither salary increases or new buildings have been allowed except where they were deemed absolutely indispensable, says the letter of transmittal.

After having visited all of the state penal, educational and charitable institutions the board in the letter makes the significant statement that the requests—nearly $4,000,000 more than the recommendations—were as a whole, reasonable but that "we have taken heed of existing economic conditions and the cry for reduced taxation."

"It must be admitted" adds the letter "nevertheless, that our recommendations leave but little room for expansion."

The letter then calls attention to the growth of enrollment at most of the higher educational institutions. This would be counted remarkable even in ordinary times but is phenomenal in the light of present conditions, it declares. It cites the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo with an increase of 52 percent in enrollment over the last year; the State Teachers College with 38 percent and the University with 26 percent.

The board recommends that some other state official beside the attorney be appointed a member of the board because of that official's lack of time.

"That institutions maintained wholly or in part from charges against the counties from which its patients come, be compelled to pay back to the state all deficit appropriations. The same for institutions supported wholly or in part by interest or income from state lands."

That ex-Senator W. J. Church of Benson county be retained to assist the appropriations committee with his experience and knowledge of the budget.

Letter of Board

"The penal and charitable institutions have also had large increase in population during the last two years, the State Training School showing an increase of over 200 percent and the State Penitentiary over 80 percent. It is a known fact that there are over 1000 deaf children in the state who should be carried to the Institute for Feeble Minded, but that institution is unable to accommodate them with its present housing facilities. The State Tuberculosis Sanatorium has also reached the limit of its housing capacity, with many applicants for admittance who cannot be taken care of. Those conditions are emphasized for the reason that the Budget Board, in taking them into consideration, have been unable to appreciably lower the budget under existing appropriations.

"Economic conditions are admittedly bad, yet we do not believe that North Dakota is so poverty stricken that she must deny any child the right to a good education, neither do we believe it advisable to curtail any essential governmental activity just because conditions are temporarily subnormal. The big problem confronting the legislature, in our opinion, is not the wholesale and indiscriminate cutting of budget requests, but rather the finding of new sources of revenue which will take some of the burden off of real property."

Money for Luxuries

"The records of the Internal Revenue Office at Fargo for the year just closed, show that there was spent in the State of North Dakota during the year 1922 over five millions of dollars for tobacco and cigars, over two millions for candy, over two millions for admissions to theatres, nearly one million for soft drinks and over one half million for cosmetics. During the same period there was spent approximately fifteen millions of dollars for all educational activities. The Board feels that this is a sad commentary on our much vaunted civilization and makes the suggestion that a steady source of income might be obtained by a tax on some of these items."

PLAGUE FOES ENCOURAGED BY WIDE INTEREST

Dr. Grassick Traces Success of Organization During the Past Year

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

All officers of the North Dakota Tuberculosis Association were re-elected. They include: President, Dr. J. Grassick, Grand Forks; Vice-President, Dr. Fannie Dunn Quinn, Bismarck; Secretary, Carrie Haugen, Bismarck; Treasurer, Olaf Hagen, Bismarck.

The North Dakota Tuberculosis Association after 14 years of work, has found reward in increased membership and in definite results in fighting the "white plague." Dr. J. Grassick of Grand Forks, president of the association, told directors and officers at the annual meeting in progress here today.

"While other institutions of like nature in various parts of the country have for various reasons found it difficult to function, we have not only weathered the gale but have made considerable headway in the very teeth of the wind," said Dr. Grassick. "During the past year we have been more active than in any like period of our history and the ensuing year promises to outdo its predecessors."

Dr. Grassick, in his president's report, expressed regret that the state health board was not given sufficient funds to function promptly, as, he said, it is the logical agency "for correlating all of our public health activities."

"It is my belief," he continued, "that until the state board of health can see its way clear to take over and control from a central department with a whole time director, and its head, all of the independent health agencies of our state, that our organization would be untrue to its principles and unworthy of the trust that has been given us. If we did not carry on to the fullest extent of our ability, let us program for the coming year be aggressive, constructive and helpful."

The Tuberculosis Association, operating chiefly from voluntary contributions, receives some support from the state legislative appropriations.

The association was the first in the state to publicly advocate the employment of public health nurses, Dr. Grassick said. This movement has grown large from a small beginning, he added. The operation of an open air school at the Sanatorium undertaken by the association years ago has proved so successful that "it is now an established department of tuberculosis work at the sanatorium," he said.

The Modern Health Crusade has proved helpful in aiding in the formation of habits of right living by 150,000 school children of the state. The traveling clinic has been a great aid in carrying the right message of avoiding and fighting tuberculosis into sparsely settled communities. The association, through its office in Bismarck and its monthly publication, has endeavored to present matters pertaining to health and right living in the proper manner to the public, Dr. Grassick added.

WILLYS-KNIGHT COUPE-SEDAN COMBINES SEDAN CONVENIENCE WITH COUPE SOCIABILITY

Newest Creation, Introduced First at the New York Automobile Show, Completes Willys-Knight 1923 Motor Car Styles, which Eclipse All Previous Achievements

Matching in every beautiful line and mark of luxurious comfort, the wonderfully quiet, efficient motor under the hood, the Willys-Knight cars displayed at last week's automobile show, present new motor car styles which eclipse in originality and refinement of design all previous Willys-Knight achievements.

The new Willys-Knight coupe-sedan introduced last week for the first time, completes the Willys-Knight line—a car of exceptional grace and beauty, a combination of fine workmanship and design, and economy of operation.

Also exhibited is the seven-passenger sedan—seven passenger in comfort and convenience, but minus the usual seven-passenger heaviness and expense; the five-passenger sedan; the four-passenger coupe; the seven-passenger touring car; the five-passenger touring car; and the three-passenger roadster.

The Coupe-Sedan—an innovation—combines the chummy sociability of the Coupe with the convenience of the sedan, an entirely original body creation of steel for the most discriminating motorist.

Both front and rear seats are full size, richly upholstered, in mouse-colored velour and deeply cushioned with springs and hair.

Doors both front and rear eliminate the inconvenience of folding of emergency seats and provides equal comfort for hosts and guests in a big, roomy body that holds five passengers with comfort. Giving the comfort of the Sedan with the friendliness and coziness of the Coupe, tinted windows lower entirely out of sight.

The long cowl and hood, adorned with a nickel plated radiator shell and nickel plated head lamps of bullet design give an appearance of a car that is light and fleet, yet adequate for a family. It is painted a Willys-Knight blue on cowl, hood and body.

Only the highest grade waterproof top material is used, in keeping with the distinctiveness of the rest of the car. Aluminum kick-pads, added to the running board are another little touch of refinement. Interior instrument fittings and appointments add to the general feeling of comfort and luxury at moderate cost. A large trunk of adequate proportions is provided in the rear.

Triumph of Engineering Skill

The coupe and sedan, both five and seven-passenger, show to good advantage one feature in the Willys-Knight design—unusually low under-slung rear springs of chrome vanadium steel, making possible low center of gravity, with the consequent ease of riding and freedom from side sway and skidding on curves.

The Willys-Knight cars impress one, upon study, as triumphs of engineering skill. From whatever viewpoint they are studied, they live up to the marvelous motor under their hood.

No car in America is easier to steer. Only one car in America, and it costs three times as much, as the Willys-Knight, can boast of the same front axle construction. The fatigue of driving is eliminated by this one stroke of genius. Women find the Willys-Knight an unusually easy car to handle.

Nothing has been overlooked for the comfort and convenience of the passengers. One sinks into luxurious cushions as in an easy chair. In the closed cars, windows are raised and lowered with ease with a crank type regulator.

The interior color schemes in the closed cars are rich and harmonious, while the finish of the interior metal work is practical and attractive.

Refinements Add to Beauty

Externally there have been several refinements perfected that will add thousands of new friends to those who have had long service with the car whose motor—"improves with use."

The nickel-plated barrel cowl lights, now standard equipment on all Willys-Knight models, add a distinctive appeal, as does the nickel-plated radiator shell, mounted by an attractive nickel-plated radiator cap with decorative design.

The color of the finish of the hood and cowl has been changed to the distinctive Willys-Knight blue, that has so appealed to discriminating motorists and is still used on the body of the car.

In the touring car and roadster, bright, long grain leather of the finest grade is now standard equipment replacing the dull pebble-grain leather, adding instant appreciation, better appearance and more durability.

An improved design in the shape of the top, which is of high grade water proof material whip-cord lined lends beauty to the general attractiveness of the car's line quality.

In the open car, easily operated side curtains add to the joy of motoring. Fastened from the inside, they open with the doors.

The glass in the rear curtain is set in nickel plated frame. Aluminum kick-pads have been added to the running boards.

A sturdier, stronger tire holder, with Willys-Knight seal in the center and a larger gasoline tank are additions to the back of the car that lend to the all-around symmetry.

Interior Appointments

A rich blue-grey broadcloth upholstery is used in the Sedan and Coupe models, with a European tilt to the seats that adds comfort, especially on long trips. The doors are extra wide. The fine quality of the instruments and fittings will appeal to the most discriminating.

The ventilating windshields in all models afford a protection from every condition of weather, while giving a clear, unobstructed view ahead. A windshield wiper is standard equipment.

The steering tube has been lengthened to the floor on all models. A front cross tube has been added to the chassis, lending additional rigidity to the sturdy frame.

The Willys-Knight Motor

Of course, the vital factor of any car is the motor under the hood and in this case all questions are quickly settled, as it is the famous sleeve-valve Willys-Knight—"the motor that wears in—not out."

Two simple metal sleeves that glide silently up and down between the cylinder wall and the piston, one working within the other, regulate the intake and exhaust of gas and increase flexibility and economy.

There are but 32 parts in the valve mechanism of the Knight motor. Compare this with the 365 parts in the valve mechanism of the best known poppet-valve car. Simplicity and economy of operation is apparent.

Carbon, the foe of other motors, actually increases compression in the Willys-Knight. Its simplicity and freedom from repair have given it an international reputation for long life. There is no record of a Willys-Knight motor that has worn out.

First Real Division Appears in Senate on Grain Bill Resolution

Possible investigation of the condition surrounding the activities and condition of the North Dakota State Guaranty Fund Commission was pressed in the demand for a roll call yesterday afternoon made by Senator H. J. Rusch, (Ind.) Cass county in the vote on adoption of his resolution calling for a report from the Fund commission relative to the actual status of closed banks in the state.

"It is my understanding that the rules of the house do not require a roll call on resolutions which do not involve appropriations nor amendments to the constitution," said Lt. Gov. Frank Hyland.

"Nevertheless I should like a roll call," said the senator from Cass.

"But this resolution as I understand it does not call for any appropriation," responded the speaker.

"That is true," replied Senator Rusch to the chair, "but I understand that the Guaranty Fund commission is prepared and ready to make a detailed report. This won't cost us a cent, but you can't tell what the cost might be after we get a look at it."

And the roll call taken was a unanimous 46 favoring the call for the detailed report.

First Factional Fight

Four Senators were absent and not voting today when the senate passed five bills, re-referred one measure to the committee, passed the first measure introduced by a nonpartisan league senator, held up action on a divided report on a memorial to congress to be referred to former Lieutenant Gov. A. T. Kraabel, plead for harmony. The four absent senators Lynch, Flecken, McLaughlin and Miklethun had gone to Fargo to attend the various agricultural, organization meetings now in convention there.

Senator Wm. Martin of Morton met no difficulty in a suggestion that Senator Stevens measure relative to requirements for registered graduate nurses be re-referred to committee.

The first sign of a factional difference between the independents and the nonpartisan league groups in the senate came with the deferring of action on the Jackson and Ingerson resolutions memorializing congress to develop farmer produce stabilization legislation.

The committee of agriculture to which the two resolutions had been referred brought in a divided report on factional lines, the league group urging adoption of the Ingerson resolution in a minority report, the independents urging adoption of the Rep. Jackson resolution in a majority report. The two measures are practically the same except in one detail. The Jackson measure introduced and passed in the house urges congress to pass legislation for the stabilization of grain prices, but fixes no specific legislation, measures or methods by which the needed relief may be gained. The other introduced by Senator Ingerson, Burke, (N.) cites the same general chaotic conditions in the marketing of farm produce but specifically calls upon congress to approve the Norris-Sinclair measure now pending for creation of a government operated buying and selling agency.

Five Bills Passed

The senate passed five bills, all but one by unanimous vote of the members present. Senator Ingerson, supported by Senator Ward, both leagueurs opposed final passage of S. B. 4 making valid mortgages filed in the last two years without the addresses of the principals. The vote was 42 to 3 for passage while the elipheer was applied by a 38 to 7 vote.

Independents and leagueurs voted unanimously this afternoon for passage of S. B. 23, Baker, Renville county, nonpartisan, providing for extension of time for which counties might give bonds for seed and feed lien purposes from five to ten years. This is the first measure introduced by a leagueur to be passed in the senate.

Other measures passed included S. B. 35 extending a $35,000 appropriation for a bridge between Pembina and Kittson county; S. B. 15, authorizing the transfer of money from one to another fund in the hall insurance department, and S. B. 18, making the consul of a foreign nation the administrator of an estate under certain conditions including all heirs in the foreign country.

Ask Harmsway

Lt. Gov. Hyland noticing A. T. Kraabel in the rear of the senate chamber detailed Senator Kaldor of Trail to escort the former lieutenant governor to the rostrum and called upon him for a statement. Mr. Kraabel expressed at being back in the senate even for a moment adding:

"I presume that the members realize that an unusual amount of work and legislation is expected of you. We have many ills, ailments and disagreements, not only in this state but in the world generally that many people believe may be cured by legislation. The people expect too much. Legislation will not cure conditions, but some constructive legislation might go a long way towards giving aid. BRITISH TO RETURN HOME ON DEBT FUND

No Actual Results Yet Accomplished from U. S.—British Conference

Washington, Jan. 18.—The British and American debt commission have reached a point in their negotiations where it is virtually agreed no further progress can be made until the British commissioners return to London for conferences with their government. The two commissions will hold another joint meeting tomorrow but it is expected to constitute only a leave-taking preparatory to the departure of the British from Washington. They will sail from New York Saturday and any attempt to establish even a tentative governed agreement as to terms of settlement of the British war debt is expected to be delayed several weeks.

Despite the exchanges which have taken place since the arrival of the British it was intimated in authoritative quarters that no results had been produced accomplishing enough to warrant concrete recommendations to Congress for amendment of the funding law.

SEEK PLAN TO REORGANIZE PACKING PLANT

Fargo, Jan. 18.—Only as a last resort will the syndicate plan suggested at the meeting of the stockholders of the Equity Cooperative Packing company at yesterday's meeting to aid in the liquidation of the company's obligations be adopted, the directors informed a committee from the Fargo commercial club, directors and other representatives this morning at a conference of the directors and club representatives.

The representatives of the Equity Cooperative Packing Co., explained the financial situation and asked the members of the Commercial club committee to make suggestions as to the proper method of solving the difficulties.

No definite steps were taken at the morning meeting as the club committee desired more time to consider the questions. The only immediate action they could take was on the question of assisting in having a "friendly receiver" appointed. The directors swore that they did not get a "square deal in the receivership." Paul Peterson, announced at the meeting yesterday and again this morning, Mr. Peterson announced that Judge Cole in conference with the representatives of the company would appoint a friendly receiver. The receiver will be appointed Saturday if Judge Cole makes his decision permanent.

Two resignations were before the board, that of U. L. Burdick, as attorney for the company is still pending, and C. W. Reichert's resignation did not contain any explanation as to the reason why it was made.

A proposal to assign the stock or to raise funds from the stockholders is out of the question, said Mr. Peterson.

SOLVE INTERNAL TROUBLES
An amicable solution of the internal troubles of the Equity Cooperative Exchange seemed to have been reached yesterday after two sessions of the stockholders and officers of the Equity Cooperative Exchange in their annual conference.

AMERICAN ENVOYS SEEK SOLUTION

Lausanne, January 18.—The influence of the American delegation is being exercised in a friendly way at the Near East conference to find a solution of the questions confronting the conference. The gravest problem before the conference is the question of the judicial privileges of foreigners.

Richard Washburn Child, ambassador to Italy of the American delegation, had a conference today with Ismet Pasha, and earnestly counseled the Turkish leader to offer some solution for the question.

The Americans are refraining from attempts to impress an American solution on the conference, but it was pointed out that the Americans had every reason to be interested in the solution of the question, so that the United States might act in unison with the Allied powers concerned. The legal status of the foreign people in Turkey is a vital question.

SEEK PLAN TO REFUND DEBT

Washington, Jan. 18.—Negotiations between the American and British governments looking to the refunding of Great Britain's war debt to the United States will be carried forward through the British embassy here after the return of the British debt commission after the end of the week. This announcement was made at the conclusion of the joint session of the American-British commissions.

Supper will be served in the Methodist Church by the Boy Scouts, Friday evening, Six o'clock.

PROSPERITY IS FORD PLAN TO END WAR

Detroit, Jan. 18.—Henry Ford's industrial expansion program is worldwide, not national, in scope, and has been undertaken with the underlying motive of educating the people of the world to such a degree and of making them so prosperous "that war will be ended forever."

This was disclosed today as the motive back of the Detroit manufacturer's desire to extend his operations into every part of the world.

Mr. Ford believes that "a busy, prosperous people do not stop work to make war; they go to war only when it is necessary to protect their homes or their ideals when these are menaced by some more idle nation."

"When the time comes that every one, everywhere, has a job, and lasting prosperity has been created as a result, the people of any nation will be too busy and too happy to even think about war," the many-faceted says. Therefore, it is pointed out by these in-close-together with him, he is convinced that world industrial expansion, bringing with it prosperity for all people in all lands, automatically will make war impossible.

The manufacturer is known to believe that the automobile is the agent that will usher in the millennium of world peace.

"When the people of any country get to understand automobiles and use them daily, they will know considerably more about machinery," he declares. "Then, in the course of a few years agricultural machinery will appear in that country. Hundreds of bushels of grain will be produced where only a few were grown before. In many foreign countries the farmers know nothing of machinery. Probably they will not know it until they have learned to use automobiles. Machinery will help to make any country prosperous."

"There is another reason why world wide use of motor cars will help to end war. That is in the increase of travel on the part of the persons of any country."

"In Mexico, villages fight one another. If we could give every man in those villages an automobile, let him travel from his own home town to the other towns, and permit him to find out that his neighbors, at heart, were his friends, rather than his enemies, Mexico would be pacified for all time."

"Russia could be saved by the advent of the automobile. It would educate the peasants by instruction in machinery. Other machinery would be brought in to till the fertile acres if the peasants once were taught to use it. There would be no more hunger anywhere in that country."

"The same is true, to a greater or less degree, of every country under the sun."

Mr. Ford, according to those close to him, has come to look upon automobiles, not merely as the products of his factories or the plants of other motor companies, but as a means of civilization and pacifying every part of the world.

SEEK IMPROVEMENT IN TELEPHONE SERVICE

London, Jan. 18.—The countries of western Europe are about to seek improved international telephone communicating. As it is today, one cannot speak from one country to another if another country intervenes; contact is possible only when countries are contiguous.

An international conference of telephone officials has been called to consider improvement by the establishment of through trunk lines. The tentative plans include England, Spain, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Italy, Morocco, Algeria, Tunis, Tripoli and Egypt. A central point would be chosen in each country for the main trunk line terminal, and the international communication would be operated from these points.

LIBERALS SEEK CAMPAIGN FUNDS

London, Jan. 18.—The Asquith-Grey liberals are casting a covetous eye upon the Lloyd party funds, which are said to amount to more than two million pounds sterling.

Their argument is that the subscribers to the Lloyd George fund gave their money to be used as Liberal propaganda and not for the use of any one section of the party. This is said to be one of the impelling motives for a reunion of the two branches of the party.

The Asquith-Grey Liberals have turned down the suggestion made by some of the subscribers to have the matters taken into court.

State to Continue Barberry Extinction

Washington, Jan. 18.—Conferees on the agricultural appropriations bill have been informed by Harrison Fuller, secretary of the Conference for Prevention of Grain Rust, that the legislatures of seven states are considering appropriations of $81,000 for eradication of barberry bushes to control black stem rust which causes millions of dollars loss annually.

These appropriations are to be made annually for the next two years.

Illinois is expected to appropriate $1,000; Minnesota and Michigan and South Dakota, $10,000 each. North Dakota $25,000; Ohio and Wisconsin $15,000.

"The agricultural bill conferees will meet Saturday to consider among other changes the senate's action in increasing the federal appropriation from $350,000 to $500,000 for work in cooperation with the state colleges in barberry eradication."

The senate's $150,000 increase was made contingent upon the state's appropriating a like amount.

INVESTIGATION INTO OIL DOME IS CUT SHORT

Washington, Jan. 18.—An attempt by Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board of the Consolidated Oil Corporation, in testifying today at the oil investigation to go into the broad features of the Teapot Dome controversy, was cut short by announcement by Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, a co-member, that "the committee had decided not to go into that subject."

Mr. Sinclair, before being interrupted did get into the records estimates that his obligation under the contract amounted to between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 and that his holdings in the Mammoth Oil company the Teapot Dome operating concern probably had a curb market value of about $100,000,000 although he said "it is very doubtful if money could be raised on it."

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

About 200 Ladies Attend Reception Given by N. P. Club

About 200 ladies were present at the reception given by the Women's Nonpartisan League of Bismarck in honor of the wives of the members of the legislature Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Curran.

This is the first really big social affair to be given for the wives of the law makers of the state. The large attendance of women from both sides of the parties indicated that the women were ready to promote a more friendly feeling among the factions.

The hostess, Mrs. Curran, was assisted in the receiving line by the officers of the club. Mrs. Charles Leissman, Mrs. Richard Thistlethwaite, and Mrs. Gus Kaline, while Messrs. S. J. King, Thomas Lauder, Candlerberg, C. W. McDonnell, Fred Swenson, and S. S. McDonald assisted in pouring tea.

A delightful musical program was given by Mrs. I. C. Frendburg, Mrs. R. H. Thistlethwaite, Misses Genevieve Bone, Margaret Cook, Maria Svendsgaard, and Lucille Kaline.

Decorations were artistically carried out in pink, a profusion of carnations forming beautiful floral decorations, while the lights and candles were shaded with pink.

LAST RITES FOR DR. TONEY

Burial Takes Place at St. Mary's Cemetery Following Masonic Funeral

Impressive Masonic funeral rites were held at the Masonic temple at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Dr. S. B. Toney, well known dentist who passed away at his home Tuesday.

Those acting as pallbearers were: T. R. Atkinson, W. W. Fuller, Fargo; Charles Elbie, Mandan; John Rachek, Mandan; Roy Logan, and Dr. G. A. Rawlings.

After the Masonic services Rev. H. C. Postlethwaite spoke briefly of the high esteem in which Dr. Toney was held by his many friends in Bismarck and vicinity. He spoke of his exemplary life, his kindness, his interest in everything that related to improvements of community life.

Frank Gale sang several beautiful vocal selections during the service. Many beautiful flowers, tokens of remembrance from friends in many places, covered the funeral bier. Mrs. C. W. Finch of Forest City, Ia., a sister of Mrs. Toney's has arrived to be with her sister at this time of grief.

Burial took place at St. Mary's cemetery.

F. S. TALCOTT RESTS EASILY

F. S. Talcott, member of the board of administration who was operated on yesterday at St. Alexius hospital for appendicitis was resting easily this morning after a restless night. His temperature had not risen and his heart was good, according to doctors.

A rather serious condition was found yesterday when the operation was made but conditions today showed that the poison was being carried away, doctors said.

Hope of bringing Mr. Talcott safely through his illness despite the seriousness of his condition was expressed at the hospital.

Mrs. Talcott, F. S. Talcott, a son; Mrs. George Howe, a daughter and Mr. Howe, arrived in Bismarck from Fargo last night.

SMUGGLER OF EMIGRANTS

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 17.—Because the port police discovered 25 Italian Portuguese and Spaniards crowded into his gasoline barge "Mermaid" without passports, Jose Benitez Diaz has been fined $1,000. A letter was found in Benitez' possession in which one "Genaro" promised to pay him $1,750 for transporting the 25 passengers to an unlisted destination.

CHARTER GRANTED

A charter has been granted for opening of a new bank at Nome, Baines county—the Security Bank of Nome. The shareholders who hold all of the $150,000 capital stock are all Fargo men—James Grady, H. C. Amoth and F. P. Amoth.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends for their sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement. The passing of our loved one, Lillian Josephine; also for the many beautiful flower offerings.

—Mr. and Mrs. Emil Anderson

SIR KNIGHTS

Regular meeting Tancred Commandery Thursday at 7:30 p. m. You are urged to attend.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Hurry mother! Even a cross, sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

CHAMING PLAY TO BE SEEN HERE

MITZI

Mitzi, the captivating prima donna comedienne, who will be seen in "Lady Billy" at the Auditorium Jan. 22 is an artist whose voice alone would be anyone's else's fortune.

She is tiny, pretty, full of dash and not only can she act charmingly, but in her delightful costume how charming she can look.

The charm of "Lady Billy" lies in an interesting story with a background of songful musical numbers, and a foreground most of the time with Mitzi as the central character.

Zelda Sears wrote the book and the lyrics, and Harold Levey a protégé of Victor Herbert, composed the musical numbers. The story develops from an old ghost tradition of a castle in Roumania, where a beautiful countess sells a fake echo and a bogus appearance of an ancient orchestra will come to this city.

BOY SCOUT BANQUET TO AID IN PUTTING ROOF ON BRAND NEW LOG CABIN

Over two years ago it started if you have not been to it, and seen for yourself the site it is built on, you cannot realize just what it means to this troop of boys. To get to it, you must go south on the road from Port Lincoln to the foot of the big hill, then turn in the field to the right and follow the low path along the side of the hill for about a half mile until you come to the most picturesque and most beautiful spot along Apple Creek, there you will see the cabin sitting up on its natural prominence a hundred feet above the creek.

It is all done now but the roof, and the inside finish, and you will wonder how it was done, when you see it, bring away back there so far from the road and on such an elevation. No wagon can get within a half mile of it, and no horse can get there except by being led single file.

The first load of logs were hauled to this half mile point about two years ago, being hauled some three miles from Capt. I. P. Baker's timber along the river and then before the boys could get these logs to their cabin site some low down blankety blank stole them.

Not discouraged, the boys chopped down more logs and had them dragged one at a time to where they wanted them; then they had to be pulled up the hill and notched and fitted in place.

The cabin is twenty-four by sixteen feet inside measurement, and nine or ten logs high, this means eighteen logs twenty-five or six feet long by twelve or fourteen inches in diameter for the sides, and eight-church, to help them pay for the material for the roof of their cabin. This will be your opportunity to give them a little boost.

IF YOU WANT A CLEAR SKIN, GOOD HEALTH, HEED THIS ADVICE

St. Paul, Minn.—"Both my husband and I consider Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets ideal as a home remedy for sluggish liver and stomach disorders. We believe they have saved us many a doctor bill, and I would not care to keep house without the Pleasant Pellets in my medicine closet. They are mild as well as being effective as a laxative, and also give relief in cases of indigestion. I have found them exceptionally good during motherhood. They did not gripe or cause any other distress."

Mrs. Florence Keenan, No. 903 Margaret Street.

Obtain a trial of Pellets now of your druggist—and see how quickly you feel clear headed—full of vim and vitality.

A Hot Dish for a Cold Day

Eating indigestible foods that are lacking in real nutrient means lowered vitality—and that means catching the first "cold germ" that comes along.

Real bodily warmth does not come from overcoats and blankets. Try this hot, nourishing dish for breakfast or lunch. Heat two biscuits in the oven to restore their crispness; then pour hot milk over them, adding a little cream and a little salt.

To make a real hot whole wheat porridge put the Shredded Wheat Biscuits in a small saucepan; add salt and enough water to cover the bottom of the pan; stir and boil until it thickens, then serve with milk or cream.

Better than ordinary porridges for youngsters or grown ups.

Shredded Wheat is 100 per cent whole wheat, ready-cooked and ready-to-eat. It is a perfect all-day food, delicious for breakfast, or any meal. Contains all the bran you need to stimulate bowel movement.

TRISCUTT is the Shredded Wheat cracker—a real whole wheat toast—eaten with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

About 200 Ladies Attend Reception Given by N. P. Club

About 200 ladies were present at the reception given by the Women's Nonpartisan League of Bismarck in honor of the wives of the members of the legislature Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Curran.

This is the first really big social affair to be given for the wives of the law makers of the state. The large attendance of women from both sides of the parties indicated that the women were ready to promote a more friendly feeling among the factions.

The hostess, Mrs. Curran, was assisted in the receiving line by the officers of the club. Mrs. Charles Leissman, Mrs. Richard Thistlethwaite, and Mrs. Gus Kalline while Mmes. S. J. King, Thomas Lauder, Caulderhead, C. W. McDonnell, Fred Swenson, and S. S. McDonald assisted in pouring tea.

A delightful musical program was given by Mrs. L. C. Frendburg, Mrs. R. H. Thistlethwaite, Misses Genevieve Boase, Margaret Cook, Maria Svendsgaard, and Lucille Kalline.

Decorations were artistically carried out in pink, a profusion of carnations forming beautiful floral decorations, while the lights and candles were shaded with pink.

LOSS TO CITY
Bismarck sustains a distinct loss in the deaths this week of Dr. Toney and Robert Orr. Both were prominent in the professional and commercial life of the city; good citizens, beloved by all who knew them.

Those who knew Dr. Toney were impressed with his kindly character, devotion to his profession and the high standard of ethics which he practiced daily in the pursuance of it.

Robert Orr had long been identified with the commercial growth of the city. He was the type of a man who could best advise a young and growing community. His interests were centered here and he had the welfare of the community at heart. His cheerful disposition, keen application to duty and stability of character endeared him to many.

Heartfelt sympathy goes out to the two families so deeply bereaved by the death of these leading citizens of Bismarck.

YOUR OWN WAY
You can learn much philosophy and knowledge of human nature by watching simple incidents. For instance:
In a Pullman smoking room, one traveler recently began boasting of the merits of his safety razor. The others unconsciously began stroking their chins.

One spoke up, praising a second make of razor. Another pooh-poohed, he used a third make—"got it all over the others."
Six different makes of safety razors were touted for world leadership. Each claimant firmly believed he was right, the rest wrong. They appealed to the seventh passenger—economical of conversation, smoking quietly in the corner with hat over his eyes.

"None of you is right," he announced, knocking the ashes out of his pipe. "I use the only REAL razor—the old-fashioned straight blade without any safety guard."
The argument was carried to the porter, supreme judge of many a Pullman argument.

The porter chuckled and said: "I don't see it makes any difference. The important point is that each of you, no matter what kind of razor you use, comes out with a clean shave."

You sit down in a restaurant and ponder the bill-of-fare. Finally you order. Ask the waiter and he'll tell you that, except where there's a straight table d'hotel dinner for a fixed price, no two persons in a large dining room order exactly the same meal.
However, they all walk out with a full stomach—or, at least, sufficient fuel to keep their engines running.

Each of us has a slightly different way of doing things. But, in the end, we are all working toward the same goals. There are millions of ways, all leading to the same happiness, just as there are many ways of baking good bread.
Some roads are longer than others. And, by traveling the long roads we naturally take longer to reach our goal than the people with sufficient vision to take the short-cut. Alas, too many of us select such a long route that we die before we reach the goal or even in sight of it.

No two people go after money in exactly the same way. There's the same difference in methods of seeking successful marriage, bringing up of children, recreation and others of a long list.

In national government we have the same common goal—lots of service and public improvements, at lowest possible cost. But, like men who shave and hungry folks who enter the restaurant with contrasting appetites, we differ as to how to reach what we want.

It's a good thing always to remember that we have something in common with the opposition. If all contending parties could get this through their heads, an exchange of ideas might reveal the compromise that would prove to be a mutual short-cut.

VETERAN
The largest tree in the world is discovered near Waihou, New Zealand. Scientists are debating whether it is 8000 years old or only 2000. All agree it will live another 1000 years unless some greedy destroyer cuts it down. That probably will be its fate, since it contains enough lumber to build three houses of 20 rooms each. To get money, men destroy the best things in the world, including the best things in themselves.

MURDER
England last year had 63 murders—and arrested 56 persons, charged with murder. Hard for an American to believe. One American in 12,000 leaves this life at the hands of a murderer. In England the figure is only one in 634,000.
"In America anyone can buy a revolver. In England a pistol can be bought only by presenting a police permit—and such permits are not issued to private parties. Since the majority of murders are committed by firearms, it's perfectly obvious why, in proportion to population, we have 53 times as many murders as England."

SCOTCH
Dewar, those bottled goods have soothed many a parched throat, goes to Uganda, Africa, hunting a white rhinoceros for a Scotch museum.
"Why go to Africa, when one could be furnished by any of a great number of Americans who are drinking synthetic whisky under a counterfeit Dewar label?"
One of Schwab's admirers says his rise is "an epic of labor." Yes, and Charlie swung the pick.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

"SAY IT WITH FLOWERS"
Editor, McElroy has resigned his position with the Harvey Herald—and this is how he says his "farewell" in last week's Herald: "The editor of the Herald will resign his position on February 1st and go to Valley City where he has accepted a position. No doubt our departure will be a load off the minds of a few individuals who are desirous of 'getting rid' of the 'Bolshevik' editor. Well they will be as tickled to get rid of us as the editor is to get them out of his sight."—The Wells County Farmer.

SMOKING PROHIBITED
Dignified senators, as they are called, had an actual laugh when Senator Wheeler of Montana took a seat and continued puffing upon an after-dinner cigar. He was informed by a page that smoking was prohibited, and had been since the days of "Ben" Tillman, to whom smoking was abhorrent.

The rule is a never-ending source of joy to anti-tobacco crusaders, but some regret that it is responsible for the ineffectiveness of lawmakers. At any rate, smoking is not prohibited in the cloak rooms, where much of the business of the senate is transacted.

Both within and without the rank of senators, the floor of the chamber generally is regarded as a neutral place where one can put through their wares and spectacles are staged. There is testimony to the effect that persuasive speakers sometimes sway their hearers, and win votes for measures, but it is admitted that most of the theatricals are carefully rehearsed.

It is creditable to the senate that the rule against smoking is maintained. While the individual may indulge elsewhere, on the floor of the chamber there is greater dignity when the faces of the speakers are not hidden by clouds of tobacco smoke.—Pittsburgh Sun.

WORTHY OF BLACK MARBLE
No tradition of the South before the Civil war is any more carefully treasured than that of the negro mammy. She has found her way into literature, too. As a class of old-time mammys have vanished, here and there are survivors, daughters, perhaps, of ante-bellum nurses, who preserve the fine traits of the type. Even these are fast disappearing, and there are none coming on to succeed them so that a suggestion made in the senate recently that a monument to their memory be erected in Washington appears appropriate and timely.

The proposal was made by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi at the request of a Washington chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. This chapter is now ready to erect the memorial as soon as a site has been set apart for it.

Monuments to good servants have been all too few throughout history, but mammys were far more than just servants. Rather, they were guides, counselors and friends to their white children, loving them as tenderly as their own mother, loving them, but never over-indulging them, or hesitating to offer criticism or supply correction when needed. Their native good sense was not the least of their many admirable qualities, as many of the men and women they looked after in their childhood have testified.

The negro race may well take pride in the high place these mammys held in the education of the ante-bellum South. They earned a respect and an admiration that any individual or race might well be proud of; their owners, later their employers knew them to be women of intelligence, of refined feelings, and have usually treated them in accordance with their admirable qualities.

It will be a labor of love for any Southern organization to build a memorial to the mammy of blessed memory. No monumental record of the Civil war could be complete without its tribute to the best product of the negro race under slavery. These wise, firm and tender old women first revealed the excellence of the negro race as a favoring environment.—Baltimore American.

CANADA'S IMMIGRANTS AND EMIGRANTS
Some Canadian cabinet ministers and leading business men are taken to task by the Vancouver Province for saying that Canada was losing population, both native and new settlers, by emigration to the United States, and census reports are quoted to show that Canada in the last ten years gained a larger percentage than the United States. Why should it not be so? Construction of new railroads through the Canadian Northwest and liberal terms offered for sale of land attracted great numbers from the United States before the war, and there was little emigration from Canada to this country during the war. No doubt there has been considerable movement across the boundary in both directions during the last four years, but the new farm and oil lands that have been opened could have held the balance about even.

In former years there was certainly a large movement into the United States. That was natural while the Dominion's population was small and was mostly spread along a strip extending only a few hundred miles from the boundary, for the United States offered the attraction of a larger population of more varied and larger opportunity and of milder climate. Canada, gave up some of our best citizens among them being James J. Hill and Franklin K. Lane. Immigrants to Canada from Europe have been mainly of Anglo-Saxon blood, while those of all nations have come to the United States. In view of the quality of some of these

BISMARCK AND THE FUTURE

By Ruby Grady
In about ten years from now Bismarck ought to be a bigger and better city in every way as a capital city should be. I look forward to a new capital to take place of the varicolored structure we now have, and also a bigger and better court house with a high tower clock facing four directions. It is to be at the same spot where the present court house stands as it is an ideal place for a court house.

We need a young men's Christian association and young women's Christian association buildings badly enough, and I hope that we will have them before very long. Let the fine swept runs on the corner of Main and Third streets be the place for the Y. M. C. A. and the place where the Northwest Hotel was, for the Y. W. C. A.

DEVILS LAKE COLDEST PLACE ON MAP SAY STATISTICS OF FEDERAL WEATHER BUREAU

Washington, Jan. 17.—Devils Lake, North Dakota, with an average of nearly one-fifth of the days of the year when temperatures are as low as zero or lower, and more than one-half of the days of the year when it is freezing, or lower, holds the record as the country's coldest place. Temperature conditions vary greatly in the United States during the winter season, an analysis of records of the weather bureau shows. Long and severe winters in the northern states, with North Dakota, Minnesota, Northern Michigan and Northern Vermont having the most severe weather, contrast sharply with the mild winters of the southern states, but in summer the difference is not nearly so great.

Freezing temperatures have been recorded at all mainland stations of the Weather Bureau in winters past, but they have been of infrequent occurrence along the Pacific coast and in the immediate Gulf coast sections where they average only two to five days during the winter compared with an average of one day along the California coast.

In general, freezing weather occurs more than 100 days of the year north of southern Pennsylvania, the Ohio River, and the southern parts of Missouri and Kansas, as well as throughout the Mountain and Plateau districts of the West. In North Dakota, Eastern Montana and Western Wyoming freezing temperatures may be expected on more than half the days of the year, the annual record of Yellowstone Park averaging 211 days. This is in marked contrast with two days at Tampa, Fla., and four days at Galveston, Tex.

As a rule, severe weather does not occur south of the District of Columbia, the western portion of Virginia, the extreme northern parts of Tennessee and Arkansas, and central Oklahoma, although during the cold wave of 1899 the zero line was carried to the east Gulf coast. In the average winter the temperature falls to zero on 5 days as far south as the Gulf of Mexico.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
The postoffice was in an old hickory tree. There were places to drop in letters and packages on one side, and one the other side were little square boxes marked with people's names.

If Mr. Rabbit dropped a post card to Mr. Cottontail to meet him by the garden, why then Mr. Stamps, the fairy postmaster, put the card in the box with Mr. Cottontail's name on it. That is, he didn't make a mistake and put it in Mr. Fox's box. Nancy and Nick came to the hickory tree postoffice to assist Mr. Stamps with his mail, because he had so much trouble with it and needed help.

"Now, then!" said fussy little Mr. Stamps. "Oh, I know. Look over this pile of old letters. They are ones that haven't been called for, or the ones whose addressees I cannot read, and see if you can do anything with them. Did you get the magic glasses?"

"Yes," answered Nancy, fishing in her pocket. "The Green Wizard was extra kind and gave us each a pair." She looked hers behind her ears and Nick hooked his on behind his ears, and then they started to work. "Save!" called Mr. Stamps, "if you find any letters you can make out, spoon 'em deliver them for me, will you?" My letter man, Mr. Long, Slide, has the rheumatism and won't be back for weeks.

"Oh, yes, we'll do all we can to help," said Nick, "but didn't you say that everybody came here for their mail?" Mr. Stamps wagged his head. "Not everybody," said he. "The forest and meadow people do mostly, but how could all the fish people ever manage on dry land? Besides there are the fairies. Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, up in Bluster Gust Land, couldn't come possibly, as he is too busy. So is Cat Pounce, and the sea. We have to send their mail to them." (To Be Continued.) CAPITOL
A greater story than nine-tenths of novels or plays can tell, more sets than "Foolish Wives," more gripping action than a "best seller," and higher artistic standards than the average million dollar spectacle are promised the public in "Under Two Flags," the Universal-Jewel photodrama starring Priscilla Dean at the Capitol theater on Monday. The epic from Ovid's pen is immortal, and the story is essentially simple in its great dramatic punch. But Universal spared nothing in the making. Miss Dean was directed by Tod Browning, her director in "Outside the Law," and supported by such famous artists as James Kirkwood, a star in his own right; John Davidson, Stuart Holmes, Ethel Grey Terry, W. H. Bainbridge and others.

WRESTLERS IN FINE BATTLE FOR BIG BOUT

Radgers to Take on "The Masked Marvel" at Patterson Hall Tonight

GOOD PRELIMINARIES

Everything was in readiness this afternoon for the wrestling match tonight at Patterson hall in which Stanley Radgers, Bismarck heavyweight champion of North Dakota.

Radgers was in fine fettle today, and will weight in at about 187 pounds, while "The Masked Marvel," who has been training in Fargo, will weigh about 192 pounds.

With both men matched well in weight and in general build, and both having a long string of vic-toes over real men behind them, a real match was looked for by wrestling fans. Radgers counts among his victories a win over Jack Sampson, who has been acknowledged heavyweight champion of the state.

Preliminaries will include a match between Thor Jena, 135 pounds, and Ellsworth Finlayson, 185 pounds, in which Jena will attempt to demonstrate that speed and skill in wrestling can triumph over brawn.

Joe Moug, the Medina flash, who has been mowing down a lot of heavyweights in the state, will box with Buck Garrison in a two-round preliminary.

The match is called for 8:30 p. m.

M. B. A.'S ANNEX PIN VICTORY

The M. B. A.'s annexed one more victory last night at the local bowling alley when they collected a total of 2668 pins while the Capitals were getting 2552. Stadden was high man for the three games getting a total of 578 and Thomas rolled 214 for high for a single game.

In the Merry-Go-Round which closed Monday night, Pat. Donahue and H. C. Svum took first place with a total of 1222 and Stadden and Pat. Donahue took second place with a total of 1162.

REFEREE'S DECISION.

If some feature that is not definitely covered by the rules comes up during a game, same interfering with the play of one of the teams, what ruling can be made on such a point?

It is up to the referee to reach a decision on any point that is not covered by the rules. It is within his jurisdiction to call a foul for any action on the part of the players or spectators that he regards as unsportsmanlike, even though such action is not covered in the playing code.

CLOSELY GUARDED.

If a player who is closely guarded holds the ball on the floor and makes no attempt to put it in play, is it a foul or held ball?

If the player is closely guarded, the referee always rules it a held ball and puts it in play with a toss up. Usually the referee reaches such a decision quickly in order to avert fouling, which often happens on a held ball.

REB RUSSELL FIGURES TO RIVAL RUTH

Russell, Like Ruth, Was Once Star Southpaw In American League

BY BILLY EVANS.

Babe Ruth, at a time when he was reared as the leading southpaw of the American League, quit pitching to play the outfield.

Ruth thereupon developed into the greatest slugger in the history of baseball.

George Sisler came to the St. Louis Browns from the University of Michigan. Inside of a year he won the right to be classed as one of the best left-handers in the American League.

Sisler, a great hitter and very fast, was missed by the Browns when not pitching. He quit pitching at the top of his game to play first base.

Sisler has developed into the greatest first sacker of all time and one of the most remarkable batsmen the game has ever produced.

Seeks Ruth's Laurels.

Now comes another left-hander pitcher to win batting laurels, "Reb" Russell of the Pittsburgh Nationals.

For six years Russell, as a member of the Chicago White Sox, was one of the leading southpaws of the American League.

Unlike Ruth and Sisler, Russell did not give up pitching at the height of his career. An injury to his pitching arm caused him to be unconditionally released. He drifted back to the minors. Joe Cantillon gave him a chance at Minneapolis.

Russell started to poke them high and far. No one paid much attention to his fielding blunders. Carrying almost as much avoidpoups as Babe Ruth, naturally "Reb" was not in George Burns' class as an outfielder.

But he could hit; he could swat home runs and home-run swatting was the fad up in the majors.

Thus "Reb" Russell, losing the sting to the left whip, swatted his way back to the majors. Pittsburgh bought him from Minneapolis.

Rivals Ruth as Slugger.

Many of the expert insist if Babe Ruth's record of 59 homers is surpassed, Russell will turn the trick.

Figures tell part of Russell's ability to hit 'em. He was second to Rogers Hornsby in batting with an average of .368.

Veteran National League pitchers speak highly of Russell as a long-distance hitter. He had one streak which comes mighty close to being a record.

In a double-header with St. Louis on Sept. 1 Russell made seven consecutive hits and the bundle included three home runs and a double. Here is what he did in the double-header.

First Game. Fourth inning—Hit over the right field fence.

Sixth inning—Hit over the right field fence.

Eighth inning—Hit the right-field wall on the line for a double, missing in his third home-run by a foot.

Ninth inning—Singled to center.

Second Game.

Second inning—Singled to left.

Fourth inning—Hit over the right field fence.

Sixth inning—Singled to center.

The streak topped in the seventh inning when he rounded to Topper at short. Pitchers of experience were the victims, Bill Doak and Bill Pertica doing the hurling in the first game and Ed Pfeer in the second.

3 BASKETBALL TEAMS TO GET ACTION FRIDAY

First Team Goes to Beach—Second String Teams Play Games

Friday evening will see three teams in action representing the Bismarck high school. Coach Houser will take his first string men to Beach, where they will line-up against the team from that school. The following night, they will meet Glencive on the latter's floor.

Bismarck seconds will try conclusions with the Dawson five, who will play here in the high school gym Friday evening. Nothing is known of the strength of the opposing team, but an interesting game is promised.

Another group of second string men will journey to New Salem for a contest with the high school five there.

Arrangements are also under way to have the H. S. Midgets and the St. Mary's team of this city, play in the high school gym, on Friday evening also.

BULLSEYES OF BASEBALL

To Dave Altizer goes the credit of creating the most amusing situation I have ever seen on the ball field.

It so happened that I was forced to play the leading role in the episode, since I was the umpire. If it had all been in earnest, Dave would probably have been suspended for life for the way he handled me.

Altizer had just been released by Cleveland to Chicago. Now if there is one thing a player likes to do, it is go well against a club that has turned him loose.

Late in the game, with one down, Altizer reached first on a hit. The next batter gave him the hit-and-run sign. Altizer was off with the pitch. The batsman sent a terrific line drive right into the hands of George Stovall, playing first base. Stovall merely stepped on the bag, completing a double play and retiring the side.

As Altizer neared second, the Chicago coacher at third yelled, "Slide, Dave, slide." Stovall, seeing the hoax, threw the ball over second into center field.

Getting to his feet Altizer dashed for third. Joe Birmingham got the ball and threw it badly to Bill Bradley at third and Altizer kept on his way to the plate. The throw to the plate beat Altizer, but the Cleveland catcher purposely missed him.

Then, of course to cap the climax, I declared Altizer out, although he had been missed a foot.

I tried my best to get away from him, but he grabbed my protector, kicked my mask and shoved me hither and thither while the crowd roared. He delayed the game at least five minutes before he would take his position.

It was not until the next inning that he learned that he had run wild after being doubled up at first. Then he apologized. It sure was a comedy classic.

Tigers' Comeback Against Chicago Recalls Penn-Michigan Game

Princeton's sensational comeback in the Chicago game recalls the famous uphill fight of Pennsylvania with Michigan, back in 1912.

In that battle the Maize and Blue was leading the Quaker platoon, 21 to 7, at the end of the first half. And as the score indicates, the Yost warriors had completely outplayed the Red and Blue. Obviously, therefore, it looked all over but the shouting.

Penn, though, was not through. In fact, hadn't got started. But with the opening of the third period a different tale was unfolded. The Quakers, fighting desperately, put on a real offensive, carrying the battle to the foe.

Michigan's eleven was played practically to a standstill, and slowly but surely Penn overhauled the big Ann Arbor advantage. Two touchdowns were scored during those last quarters, but one goal was missed. Thus the count stood 21 to 20 Michigan, with but a few minutes left to play.

And then—with but 30 seconds remaining—it happened, and Michigan saw apparent victory snatched from it. The fast-tiring Wolverines were forced to punt. The boot was a good one.

But Dick Marshall, standing on his own 45-yard stripe, grabbed the spinning pigskin as it sailed through the air and dashed through the entire Yost machine, 55 precious yards, for the winning tally. Then the final whistle chirped.

Thus, Michigan, 14 points ahead at half-time, and with the embargo apparently "in," was beaten out by a fighting Pennsylvania unit plus that scintillating center of little Dick Marshall's in the ebbing moments of the struggle.

HOW DEMPSEY WOULD LOOK IN THE CLUTCHES OF THE HEADLOCK AS CLAMPED ON BY BY LEWIS.

If Jack Dempsey should ever meet Strangler Lewis in a mixed match, could Dempsey break the deadly headlock which has won so many matches for Lewis?

When the question was put to Dempsey, he simply replied: "Why worry about that feature of the match—there isn't a chance in the world for Lewis to get the headlock on me."

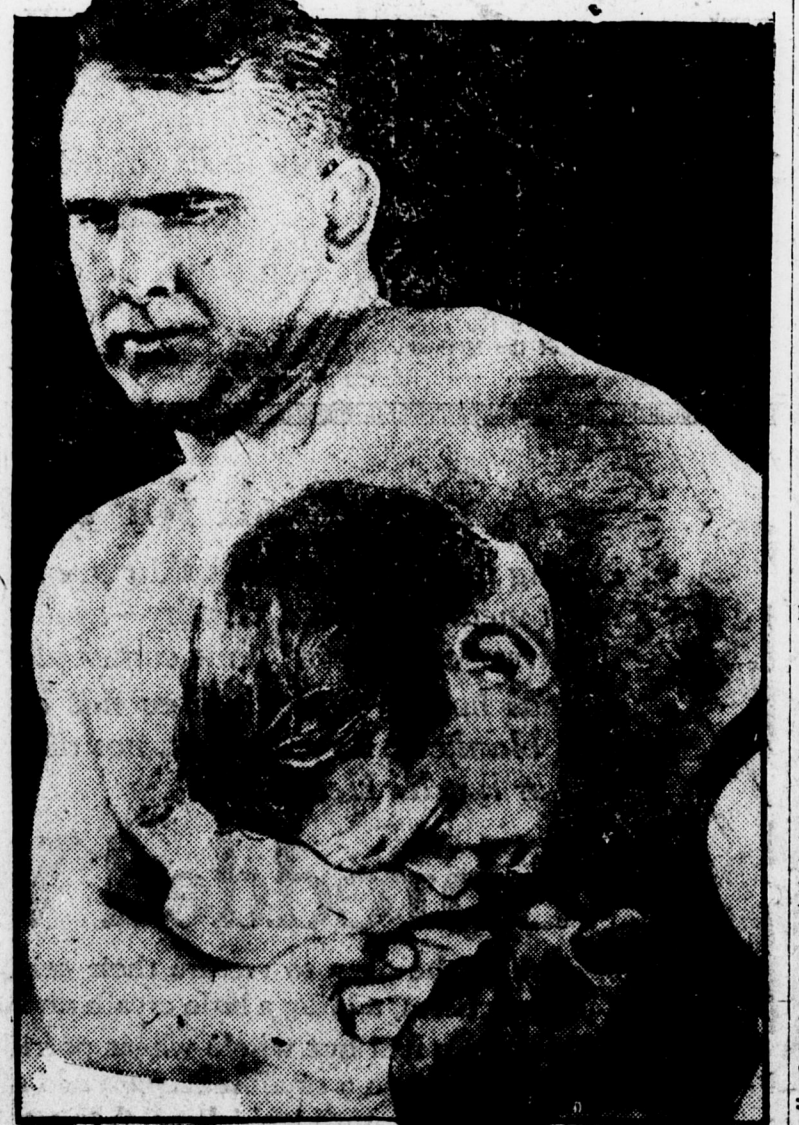

"I figure a couple of stiff punches to the stomach and a right to the jaw will soon settle the bout. The stomach muscles of the wrestlers won't stand much mauling."

On the other hand, Lewis figures that one round will be about all that Dempsey will last.

"I don't believe Dempsey would last over a round. That is about as long as he would be able to keep his feet. Once I forced Dempsey to the floor, the match would soon be over."

What do you think about it?

FOR A QUICK RESPONSE

Time was when travelers would see auction bills posted on fences or the sides of barns. But the buyer had to wait days and sometimes weeks before the auction took place, had to journey long distances to the exciting affair.

But today the daily newspapers make rapid communication between buyer and seller practical.

Testimony to the effectiveness of Tribune classified advertising might be corroborated by hundreds of experiences. The newspaper today not only makes the world a great whispering gallery but it has established a quick and easy market for the sale of goods. Its effectiveness has been demonstrated. Buyer and seller are brought together with marvelous facility and at little cost.

Curiously enough the world is so interdependent that someone is always ready to supply our smallest need and others are ready to take off our hands what is not wanted. The problem of bringing buyer and seller together, which so long handicapped the early market, has been solved by the printed page. For a quick response all one has to do is to let his wants or surplus be known through the

YOUTHS HAVE IT TOO EASY, YOSTS CLAIMS

Famous Athletic Director Tells of Difficulties of Making Good Athletes

Chicago, Jan. 18.—American youths in too many homes of the nation live a life of luxury and spend too much time on the soft, easy cushions of automobiles, in the opinion of Fielding H. Yost, coach of the University of Michigan, who, today emphasized the value of football in developing "that unconquerable fighting spirit so badly needed in our American life."

Playing the popular college game will cultivate the qualities of determination, persistence and courage, the veteran mentor declared, that can nowhere be better learned than on the gridiron. Coach Yost believes that football, as well as other athletics should remain a contributing factor of college training, as the sport will enable collections to become better fitted for college careers. "This is the one virile American game and it is needed badly in our American life," Coach Yost said. "The benefits are derived not only by the thousands who play the game, but by the many more thousands who witness these contests. Our boys in too many homes live a life of luxury and ease and spend too much of their time on the soft, easy cushions of automobiles. What they need and must have to fit them as men—real men, are the very things which are taught and developed on the football field, a strong alert body, a keen, quick thinking mind and that unconquerable fighting spirit which overcomes all obstacles in the end."

Athletic games are generally recognized as a necessary part in our normal school and college training. "The critics of college athletics, especially football, suggest that we should have less of football, or none at all, and promote athletics for everyone. What have these men done and what are their experiences in establishing, financing and putting across such a voluntary program? Those in charge of intercollegiate athletics, through the funds obtained largely from football, have financed and developed a broad intercollegiate and intramural athletic program, based on voluntary participation."

"Boys go to college to obtain a better education and to become better fitted for life. Football, as should other athletic activities, is, and should ever remain, a contributory factor to this main object of college training. It should not be made an end in itself and then it loses much of the ordinary benefit that is usually derived from it."

This difficulty can be eliminated by arranging schedules so, as to cause players to miss as few classes as possible, by limiting the length of practice periods and by seeing that the schedules of the teams do not extend over too long a period of time. All football schedules should close by Thanksgiving Day. At the same time these boys will learn to sacrifice themselves to a group or institution for the attainment of a common goal, which means that they will learn cooperation, team play, loyalty and service. Likewise, when they cultivate the qualities of determination, will power, persistence and courage, both moral and physical. "Even those who do not participate learn the lessons of service and loyalty which permeates the student atmosphere as a result of football."

ONLY REAL ECONOMY IS THAT WHICH IS APPLIED WISELY, GOVERNOR SAYS

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 18.—The only real economy is that which is wisely applied, Governor E. A. Nestos, told county commissioners of North Dakota, assembled here yesterday in annual convention. He declared just to stop spending money is not necessarily economy, but what is needed in the administration of all government from that of the state down to that of the city is the employment of most efficient help, the elimination of all useless expenditures and the preservation of every institution and agency which promotes the general prosperity and welfare of the people of the state.

The full text of the Governor's address follows: "Last year it was my privilege to address you at your annual meeting at Jamestown and I am glad indeed to have the opportunity once more to discuss with you our mutual problems."

"The board of county commissioners, elected as they are from different parts of the county, yet acting as managers of the business of the whole county and visiting every portion thereof in the discharge of their official duties, coming in closer contact with the people, the problems and the extravagance of all of our political subdivisions than any other body of officials. Therefore, you are in an exceptionally good position to discover and suggest—the places where economies can be wisely applied."

"It is getting to be a trite saying, institution and an increase in resources from $658,000 to $19,000,000 are the results of the entrance 26 months ago of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers into the banking field."

In addition to its banking business the brotherhood has extensive coal properties, a mail order dry goods house doing a department store business and a number of other cooperative businesses in the hands of the engineers brotherhood and its members."

Railroad officials and banking officers here declared that only the Rochdale cooperative societies in England offer a parallel in the practice of industrial workers in the financial and business field.

Banks in which officers of the brotherhood here are financially interested are The People's State Bank of Hammond, Ind., The San Bernardino Valley Bank, of San Bernardino Calif., with branches in Barstow and Needles, Calif., The Brotherhood Cooperative National Bank at Minneapolis and the Federated Bank & Trust Company of Birmingham, Ala. Out of the Cleveland movement have also grown cooperative banks owned by the workers, but not connected with the Cleveland institution at Philadelphia; Chicago, St. Louis, Tucson, Ariz., and other cities.

MINOT FAIR BODY PLANS BUILDINGS

Many Improvements to be Made in the Coming Year, Directors Plan

Minot, N. D., Jan. 18.—The board of directors of the Northwest fair at Minot will meet in Minot the afternoon on Jan. 25 to definitely begin its second year's ambitious building program at the fair grounds. It is expected that at that time bids will be called for three large new barns and for other improvements decided upon. Building operations are expected to start as soon as weather permits in the spring.

The first feature will be another large concrete or tile stock barn 60x130 feet in size and located just east of the present barn. Directly in front of this new barn will be a large judging and sales pavilion of the same material, eight sided and 80x80 feet in dimensions. It will have an eight-sided judging ring 40 feet wide and seats around the sides for 250 persons. The main entrance will be in front and there will be exits at the sides and the stock entry and exit on the barn side. There will be no direct connection between the barn and pavilion so that the public and stock men may enter both buildings freely from each other and from both sides. There will be 10 feet of space between barn and pavilion.

This barn and pavilion will be the central feature of the series of five stock barns planned for that side of the fair grounds. The pavilion will be surrounded by a large dome similar to that now on the exhibition building opposite and will be located to maintain the architectural balance of the grounds.

The barn will contain 60 4-foot wide stalls making room for at least 120 more of stock there. The stalls will be arranged in four rows.

Architect Ira L. Rush is preparing plans to be submitted Jan. 25 and has preliminary sketches already drawn. The speed barn, it is proposed, will be a frame structure 24x36 feet in size with two rows of 12-foot square square box stalls arranged facing a common partition, making 16 stalls in this first unit. A solid fence will surround the barn and a space of ground so that horses may lead their animals around outside the barn but inside this enclosure. The speed barn is expected to be arranged just north of the race track and toward the Great Northern tracks. A paddock may also be provided in connection.

Insurance companies may be ordered to cancel all fire insurance in the town of Drake, R. A. Midgough, state fire marshal, said today. The action was threatened following report of a $20,000 fire loss at Drake yesterday.

The officials of the town were under an order to put their water plant in good condition and give ample supply within ten days; time threat of cancellation of insurance.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Drake, N. D., Jan. 17.—Fire originating in the Lorraine cafe here about 2 a. m. today, totally destroyed that building and three others, situated immediately to the north of it before the local fire department, hampered by the lack of sufficient water, could get the blaze under control.

Estimates of the loss is placed at between $15,000 and $20,000.

Buildings destroyed were: City poolhall, Lorraine cafe, Buttman confectionery, and a vacant building owned by Christ Herr of Martin. Just how the fire started in the cafe is not known, the fire chief said.

PROBES INTO ORIGIN OF THE WORD DAKOTA

North Dakotans who have come to regard the name "Dakota," referring to the most numerous and important of the Siouan linguistic stock, as meaning "allies" the accepted definition of some historians of the general public has been to change their views as to the common definition, if the investigations and researches of Dr. Melvin Randolph Gilmore, curator of the North Dakota State Historical Society, are to be accepted as the last word on the subject.

Dr. Gilmore, an authority on the manners and customs of the various Indian nations of the central west, also has dipped much into the language of these tribes, and now comes forward with the declaration that the Dakota Indian nation word "Dakota" cannot mean "allies," since the latter word in its pure sense denotes a joining together or a confederation of several distinct peoples or nations. The word "Dakota," he says, refers to the people of one nation. Neither on the word "Dakota" mean "friends," in the ordinary sense, as some persons have said, according to Dr. Gilmore.

To arrive at the true meaning of the word "Dakota," the curator claims one must look to the mystical meaning rather than to the strict or literal meaning. In his investigation, he was obliged to search through a mass of Indian poetry and song of several Indian nations in order to find words from which the word "Dakota" might have been associated or derived. This is so because the word, as such, among the Dakota people in ancient and to all intents and purposes, obsolete. At least, it is obsolete to the extent that the generally accepted meaning, one time known to the tribe, now is lost to the world.

WHEAT PRICES IN SLUMP ON OPENING SALES

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Sellers decidedly outnumbered buyers in the wheat market today during the early dealings and prices tended downward. Bears asserted that owing to the unsettled European outlook export business was demoralized and that weakness of exchange rates made recap conditions in the winter wheat territory failed to act as an offset. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to 3 cents lower was followed by a moderate setback all-around.

OUT OUR WAY—By Williams

YOUTHS HAVE IT TOO EASY, YOSTS CLAIMS

Famous Athletic Director Tells of Difficulties of Making Good Athletes

Chicago, Jan. 18.—American youths live a life of luxury and spend too much time on the soft, easy cushions of automobiles, in the opinion of Fielding H. Yost, coach of the University of Michigan, who, today emphasized the value of football in developing "that unconquerable fighting spirit so badly needed in our American life."

Playing the popular college game will cultivate the qualities of determination, persistence and courage, the veteran mentor declared, that can nowhere be better learned than on the gridirons. Coach Yost believes that football, as well as other athletics should remain a contributing factor of college training, as the sport will enable collegians to become better fitted for their careers.

"This is the one virtue American game and it is needed badly in our American life," Coach Yost said. "The benefits are derived not only by the thousands who play the game, but by the many more thousands who witness these contests. Our boys in too many homes live a life of luxury and ease and spend too much of their time on the soft easy cushions of automobiles. What they need and must have to fit them as men, real men, are the very things which are taught and developed on the football field, a strong alert body, a keen, quick thinking mind, a life of unconquerable fighting spirit which overcomes all obstacles in the end."

"Athletic games are generally recognized as a necessary part in our national school and college life. The critics of college athletics, especially football, suggest that we should have less of football, or none at all, and devote ourselves to other things. What have these men done and what are their experiences in establishing, financing and putting across such a voluntary program? Those in charge of intercollegiate athletics, through the funds obtained largely from football, have financed and developed a broad intercollegiate and intramural athletic program, based on voluntary participation."

"Boys go to college to obtain a better education and to become better fitted for life. Football, as other athletic activities, is, and should ever remain, a contributory factor to this main object of college training. It should not be made an end in itself and then it loses much of the ordinary benefit that is usually derived from it."

"This difficulty can be eliminated by arranging schedules so as to cause players to miss as few classes as possible, by limiting the length of practice periods and by seeing that the schedules of the season do not extend over too long a period of time. All football schedules should close by Thanksgiving Day. At the same time these boys will learn to sacrifice themselves to a group or institution for the attainment of a common goal, which means that they will learn cooperation, team play, loyalty and service. Likewise, they will cultivate the qualities of determination, will power, persistence and courage, both moral and physical."

"Even those who do not participate learn the lessons of service and loyalty which permeates the student atmosphere as a result of football."

I fear, that we need rigid economy, in state, county and local affairs, but I personally feel that the statement will bear frequent repetition indeed before there is danger of overdoing it. It is quite evident that economy is needed. An abundance of statistics furnish the proof. The taxes paid by each one of you add to the evidence. When we discover that during the years from 1915 to 1922 the state expenditures increased 101 per cent; the county 60.6 per cent; city, town and village, 70.3 per cent; township expenses, 53.3 per cent; school district expenses 142.8 percent, there can be no question but that rigid economy is badly needed."

But the only real economy is that which is wisely spent. When we people know that their money is being spent efficiently, economically, and wisely, they are willing to bear even a heavy burden to taxes, but it is when they feel that much of the money is wasted or expended in places where no equivalent value is returned, that they feel discouraged and disposed to complain."

"They have a right to expect that the tax burden shall rest justly and equitably upon all classes of property and incomes. Our task in the years to come should be to secure such an administration of the public business as will eliminate waste and extravagance, promote efficiency and economy and distribute the burden of the expenses of government justly and equitably upon all of our people."

WRESTLERS IN FINE BATTLE FOR BIG BOUT

Radgers to Take on "The Masked Marvel" at Patterson Hall Tonight

GOOD PRELIMINARIES

Everything was in readiness this afternoon for the wrestling match tonight at Patterson hall in which Stanley Radgers, Bismarck heavy-weight champion of North Dakota, will be in fine fettle today, and will weight in at about 187 pounds, while "The Masked Marvel," who has been training in Fargo, will weigh about 192 pounds. With both men matched well in weight and in general build, and both having a long string of vic-

times over real men behind them, a real match was looked for by wrestling fans. Radgers counts among his victories a win over Jack Sampson, who has been acknowledged heavyweight champion of the state. Preliminaries will include a match between two local boys, 155 pounds, and Ellsworth Finlayson, 185 pounds, in which Jensen will attempt to demonstrate that good and skill in wrestling can triumph over brawn. Joe Moug, the Medina flash, who has been mowing down a lot of heavyweights in the state, will box with Buck Garrison in a two-round preliminary. The match is called for 8:30 p. m.

M. B. A.'S ANNEX PIN VICTORY

The M. B. A.'s annexed one more victory last night at the local howling alley when they collected a total of 2668 pins, while the Capitals were getting 2552. Stadden was high man for the three games getting a total of 578 and Thomas rolled 214 for high for a single game.

In the Merry-Go-Round which closed Monday night, Pat. Donahue and H. C. Sveum took first place with a total of 1222 and Stadden and Pat. Donahue took second place with a total of 1160.

Basketball Quiz

REFEREE'S DECISION.
If some feature that is not definitely covered by the rules comes up during a game, same interfering with the play of one of the teams, what ruling can be made on such a point?

It is up to the referee to reach a decision on any point that is not covered by the rules. It is within his jurisdiction to call a foul for any action on the part of the players or spectators that he regards as unsportsmanlike, even though such action is not covered in the playing code.

CLOSELY GUARDED.
If a player who is closely guarded holds the ball on the floor and makes no attempt to put it in play, is it a foul or held ball?
If the player is closely guarded, the referee always calls it a held ball and puts it in play with a toss-up. Usually the referee reaches such a decision quickly in order to avert fouling, which often happens on a held ball.

REB RUSSELL FIGURES TO RIVAL RUTH

Russell, Like Ruth, Was Once Star Southpaw In American League

BY BILLY EVANS.
Babe Ruth, at a time when he was regarded as the leading southpaw of the American League, quit pitching to play the outfield.

Ruth thereupon developed into the greatest slugger in the history of baseball. George Sisler came to the St. Louis Browns from the University of Michigan. Inside of a year he won the right to be classed as one of the best left-handers in the American League. Sisler, a great hitter and very fast, was missed by the Browns when not pitching. He quit pitching at the top of his game to play first base.

Sisler has developed into the greatest first sacker of all time and one of the most remarkable batsmen the game has ever produced. Seeks Ruth's Laurels.
Now comes another left-hander pitcher to win batting laurels, "Reb" Russell of the Pittsburgh Nationals. For six years Russell, as a member of the Chicago White Sox, was one of the leading southpaws of the American League. Unlike Ruth and Sisler, Russell did not give up pitching at the height of his career. An injury to his pitching arm caused him to be unconditionally released. He drifted back to the minors. Due to caution gave him a chance at Minneapolis. Russell started to poke them high and far. No one paid much attention to his fielding blunders. Carrying almost as much avoidpious as Babe Ruth, naturally "Reb" was not in George Burns' class as an outfielder. But he could hit; he could swing home runs and home-run swatting was the deal up in the majors.

Thus "Reb" Russell, losing the sting to the left whip, swatted his way back to the majors. Pittsburgh bought him from Minneapolis.

Rivals Ruth as Slugger.
Many of the experts insist if Babe Ruth's record of 59 homers is surpassed, Russell will turn the trick. Figures tell part of Russell's ability to hit 'em. He was second to Rogers Hornsby in batting with an average of .368.

Veteran National League pitchers speak highly of Russell as a long-distance hitter. He had one streak which comes mighty close to being a record. In a double-header with St. Louis on Sept. 1 Russell made seven consecutive hits and the bundle included three home runs and a double. Here is what he did in the double-header.

First Game.
Fourth inning—Hit over the right field fence.

Sixth inning—Hit over the right field fence.

Eighth inning—Hit the right-field wall on the line for a double, miss in his third home-run by a foot.

Ninth inning—Singled to center.

Second Game.
Second inning—Singled to left.

Fourth inning—Hit over the right field fence.

Sixth inning—Singled to center.

The streak stopped in the seventh inning when he grounded to Toporcer at short. Pitchers of experience were the victims, Bill Doak and Bill Fertie doing the hurling in the first game and Ed Pfeer in the second.

But he could hit; he could swing home runs and home-run swatting was the deal up in the majors.

3 BASKETBALL TEAMS TO GET ACTION FRIDAY

First Team Goes to Beach—Second String Teams Play Games

Friday evening will see three teams in action representing the Bismarck high school. Coach Houser will take his "first string" men to Beach, where they will line-up against the team from that school. The following night, they will meet Glendive on the latter's floor. Bismarck seconds will try conclusions with the Dawson five, who will play here in the high school gym Friday evening. Nothing is known of the strength of the opposing team, but an interesting game is promised.

Another group of second string men will journey to New Salem for a contest with the high school five there. Arrangements are also under way to have the H. S. Midgets and the St. Mary's team of this city, play in the high school gym, on Friday evening also.

BULLSEYES OF BASEBALL

To Dave Altizer goes the credit of creating the most amusing situation I have even seen on the ball field. It so happened that I was forced to play the leading role in the episode, since I was the umpire. If it had all been in earnest, Dave would probably have been suspected of life for the way he handled me. Altizer had just been released by Cleveland to Chicago. Now if there is one thing a player likes to do, it is go well against a club that has turned him loose.

Late in the game, with one down, Altizer reached first on a hit. The next batter gave him the hit-and-run sign. Altizer was off with the pitch. The batsman sent a terrific line drive right into the hands of George Stovall, playing first base. Stovall merely stepped on the bag completing a double play and retiring the side.

As Altizer neared second, the Chicago coacher at third yelled, "Slide, Dave, slide." Stovall, seeing the hoax, threw the ball over second into center field.

Getting to his feet Altizer dashed for third. Joe Birmingham got the ball and threw it badly to Bill Bradley at third and Altizer kept on his way to the plate. The throw to the plate beat Altizer, but the Cleveland catcher purposely missed him. Then, of course to cap the climax, I declared Altizer out, although he had been missed a foot.

I tried my best to get away from him, but he grabbed my protector, kicked my mask and shoved me hither and thither while the crowd roared. He delayed the game at least five minutes before he would take his position.

It was not until the next inning that he learned that he had run wild after being doubled up at first. Then he apologized. It sure was a comedy classic.

Tigers' Comeback Against Chicago Recalls Penn-Michigan Game

Princeton's sensational comeback in the Chicago game recalls the famous uphill fight of Pennsylvania with Michigan, back in 1912.

In that battle the Maroon and Blue was leading the Quaker platoon, 21 to 7, at the end of the first half. And as the score indicates, the Yost warriors had completely outplayed the Red and Blue. Obviously, therefore, it looked all over but the shouting.

Penn, though, was not through. In fact, hadn't got started. But with the opening of the third period a different tale was unfolded. The Quakers, fighting desperately, put on a real offensive, carrying the battle to the foe.

Michigan's eleven was played practically to a standstill, and slowly but surely Penn overhauled the big Ann Arbor advantage. Two touchdowns were scored during those last quarters, but one goal was missed. Thus the count stood 21 to 20 Michigan, with but a few minutes left to play.

And then—with but 30 seconds remaining—it happened, and Michigan saw apparent victory snatched from it. The fast-tiring Wolverines were forced to punt. The boot was a good one.

But Dick Marshall, standing on his own 45-yard stripe, grabbed the spinning pigskin as it sailed through the air and dashed through the entire Yost machine, 55 precious yards, for the winning tally. Then the final whistle chirped.

Thus, Michigan, 14 points ahead at half-time, and with the embargo apparently "in" was beaten out by a fighting Pennsylvania unit plus that scintillating center of little Dick Marshall's in the tiding moments of the struggle.

HOW DEMPSEY WOULD LOOK IN THE CLUTCHES OF THE HEADLOCK AS CLAMPED ON BY LEWIS.

If Jack Dempsey should ever meet Strangler Lewis in a mixed match, could Dempsey break the deadly headlock which has won so many matches for Lewis?

When the question was put to Dempsey, he simply replied: "Why worry about that feature of the match—there isn't a chance in the world for Lewis to get the headlock on me. I figure a couple of stiff punches to the stomach and a right to the jaw will soon settle the bout. The stomach muscles of the wrestlers won't stand much mauling."

On the other hand, Lewis figures that one round will be about all that Dempsey will last. If that's so, Dempsey would last over a round. That is about as long as he would be able to keep his feet. Once I forced Dempsey to the floor, the match would soon be over. What do you think about it?

FOR A QUICK RESPONSE

Time was when travelers would see auction bills posted on fences or the sides of barns. But the buyer had to wait days and sometimes weeks before the auction took place, had to journey long distances to the exciting affair.

But today the daily newspapers make rapid communication between buyer and seller practical.

Testimony to the effectiveness of Tribune classified advertising might be corroborated by hundreds of experiences. The newspaper today not only makes the world a great whispering gallery but it has established a quick and easy market for the sale of goods. Its effectiveness has been demonstrated. Buyer and seller are brought together with marvelous facility and at little cost.

Curiously enough the world is so interdependent that someone is always ready to supply our smallest need and others are ready to take off our hands what is not wanted. The problem of bringing buyer and seller together, which so long handicapped the early market, has been solved by the printed page. For a quick response all one has to do is to let his wants or surplus be known through the
